THE DAY IN CONGRESS.

A Warm Partisan Debate Over the Bond Purchases.

THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE ACT.

Continuation of the Tariff Contest in the House—Republicans Resort to Filibustering—Congressional Notes

WASHINGTON June 12.—Chandler offered a resolution referring the credentials of Senator Gibson, of Louisiana, (for his new term) to the committee on privileges and elections, and instructing the committee to inquire into all the facts as to the senatorial election, and to ascertain and report whether or not, in the recent state election in Louisiana, which included the election of the state legislature the 136,746 votes returned for the candidate of the dominant party for governor were actually cast, in view of the fact that at no previous election had the votes for the candidate of such party exceeded 88,794 and why, in the parish of Madison 3500 votes were cast for one party and none for the other, and in East Feliciana 2276 to 5 with similar returns from other parishes Also to ascertain and report whether or not at such state election there was any violence, intimidation or fraud that prevented a fair election, and whether false returns were made and counted and whether the state of Louisiana had, on the third of May, 1888, (the day of the election) a republican form of government, including a legislature entitled to choose United States senators The resolution was laid over

The resolution offered yesterday by Stewart calling on the secretary of the treasury for a statement of offers and purchases of bonds since April, 1888, with names, etc, was taken up and discussed Cockrell having moved to amend by striking out the names, Stewart argued against the amendment He expressed a belief that some persons had a secret advantage in the matter

Beck thought the amendment to strike out the names was eminently proper. The statement called for (without giving names) would show whether bids are made at any lower rates than are usually paid for bonds.

Stewart asked whether Beck supposed the treasury books would not show everything to be regular Did he not know it to be possible to have word passed around that some individual had the ear of the secretary, and that bonds should be offered through him? People had a right to know with whom the government was dealing

Beck said the senator would not rise and say that he believed or had any reason to believe that the secretary of the treasury had refused any bid that was ¼ 1 10 or 1 100 of 1 per cent. lower than what he had actually paid. The senator would not avow that it was true. Therefore no good could come of publishing the names Nothing but evil would come of it, because men would be deterred from making offers in their own names and would have recourse to brokers, thus adding to the cost.

Stewart said he did not want to expose anybody's hand but he wanted to know whether there existed a money trust with the government

Cockrell modified his amendment so as to (after the names) insert the words, "Other than private persons

George asked Stewart whether he had any information on which he relied that any lower bid had been rejected and any higher bid accepted

Stewart—None whatever That is the information I want If I had the information I would not be offering this resolution

Cockrell said the senator from Nevada would not dare to charge misconduct on the secretary of the treasury

Stewart—I will say this That the last campaign was run on the issue of opening the books and now they are open I want to keep them open.

Cockrell—That is a very pitiful subterfuge in answer to a direct question The senator from Nevada has been attempting, by indirect means unworthy of a senator to cast reflections without having the manhood or the courage to make a direct charge. Every bit of the information which the resolution calls for is published in newspapers every day, and he knows it. It is nothing but morbid curiosity that would ask for the publication of names It seems to me the whole process is in the interest of corporations and trusts, and that the whole object of the resolution is to bring before the bondholders the names and address of great corporations and trusts that are offering bonds to the government so that individuals may send their bonds to them It is a cheap way of advertising them at the public expense through the associated press. I should think they could afford to pay a round sum of money for passing this resolution and doubtless if they were called upon they would contribute a good round sum to the campaign fund

Stewart said when he offered the resolution he had no suspicion that there was anything to be covered up but his faith had been shaken by the vehemence with which the senator from Missouri was attempting to conceal facts Where there was so much smoke there must be some fire

Call argued that the resolution was an indirect reflection on the high character of the secretary of the treasury and could have no practical use

Gorman deprecated the introduction of party politics on such a subject and complimented Senator Sherman for his remarks yesterday and for his having aided in legislation authorizing the purchase of bonds He regretted that the subject had been brought in as a football to be kicked around with a desire to embarrass the treasury department only to bring about financial disaster before the presidential election If any investigation were required in the matter it should be made by the committee of the senate a body organized in opposition to the administration He therefore moved reference of the resolution to the committee on finance

Stewart said he did not want it referred to that committee because he did not want the resolution to be killed The resolution went over without action till to-morrow

The appropriation bill for the department of agriculture was reported from the committee on appropriations and placed on the calendar

INTERSTATE COMMERCE ACT

On motion of Cullom the bill to amend the interstate commerce act was taken up and Cullom proceeded to address the senate in explanation and in advocacy of it The passage of that act he said, marked a new era in the management of the railway business of the United States One of the immediate effects of it had been the abandonment of all pools by carriers but the associations though pooling had not been carried on had been reorganized and conducted under various memberships to carry out their objects But it was a general belief that division of business and diversion of freights, which had been the most objectionable features of the pooling system had ceased entirely and that places that had been formerly held in thraldom by pools had since the passage of the act enjoyed the advantage of competition between river lines The long and short haul sections had together been effective in relieving smaller cities which formerly suffered the most from the blighting domination of the railroad pools But the existing traffic associations still managed to control rates on certain classes of important traffic as arbitrarily as in the palmiest days of the old pooling system Cases were pending before the commission which involved these questions and which might result in breaking up the arbitrary control still exercised by trunk lines over certain important classes of traffic If they did not it would be necessary for congress to strengthen the pooling section, so as to prohibit combination among carriers to control traffic

Another noticeable effect of the law had been the immediate termination of a vast number of special freight contracts under which rebates and drawbacks had been paid favorite shippers

Prominent among the evils complained of before the passage of the interstate commerce act had been secret cutting of rates sudden fluctuation of rates and the prevailing system of special rates These evils had not yet been entirely abolished, but the provision of the law making it unlawful for a carrier to charge more or less than its schedule rates had largely put an end to secret cutting The changes which the law had brought in that particular were noteworthy and exceedingly satisfactory to business men and manufacturers and indeed to all shippers

In regard to transportation of passengers the law had already effected some very important reforms, and had almost completely done away with the evils formerly complained of Cullom referred to the payment of commissions and reviewed cases of discrimination decided by the commission

In speaking of the cases brought by George Rice against various Southern railroads based on discriminations against him and in favor of the Standard Oil Company, Cullom said the testimony in these cases shows beyond dispute that different roads had persistently discriminated against Rice in every imaginable way that they had frequently refused to give him information about their rates, and had deceived him as to rates when they did name them. In short, the testimony made it evident that the officers of these roads acted in concert in doing whatever they could to interfere with his business and the proceedings demonstrated the shameless subserviency of the railroads involved to the contaminating influence of the most unscrupulous 'combine' of the present day, the gigantic Standard Oil Trust

Cullom thought it must be conceded that the law had been of very great value to the people in reducing rates especially in the long and short haul principle

Cullom then proceeded to explain what was proposed to be effected by the amendments They would add greatly to the effectiveness of the existing law One of them was to require three days notice of reduction of rates. At present there was no notice required for reduction but only of an advance of rates Another amendment proposed was to extend the penalties for unlawful discriminations to imprisonment as well as to fines Another was directed against the practice known as "under billing." The practice had increased enormously since the interstate commerce act took effect, and was as clearly unlawful as payment of rebates or discrimination by another device.

In conclusion Cullom said "There is no business question in which the people of this country have a deeper interest, for the reason that there is none which bears more directly upon their financial prosperity Cheap transportation and equality of rights in its enjoyment are the two great demands of the times, and the nation will fail of its duty if it does not do what it can to secure both to the people

A message from the president, returning without his approval, a pension bill on the ground that the beneficiary had received no injury in the army referred to the committee on pensions Also another message returning without approval, a bill relieving a government contractor from payment of indebtedness of $1042 incurred by non fulfillment of contract, referred to the committee on military affairs.

The senate then proceeded to consideration of the fortification appropriation bill, and was addressed by Dolph on the subject of coast defenses The bill went over without action and the District of Columbia appropriation bill was taken up It also went over without action and the senate adjourned

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS

A Lively Colloquy Follows Filibustering by the Republicans

WASHINGTON June 12.—In the house to-day Crisp of Georgia called up the report of the committee on elections and the contested election case of Frank vs Glover from the Ninth congressional district of Missouri and the accompanying resolution, affirming the right of Glover, the sitting member to the seat, was adopted without division

Johnston of Indiana called up the contested election case of Lynch vs. Vandever from the Sixth congressional district of California and a resolution in favor of the sitting member was adopted without division

The house then went into committee of the whole Mr Springer of Illinois in the chair on the tariff bill Bynum of Indiana moved to strike from the free list flax hackled, known as dressed line agreed to

Kelley of Pennsylvania moved to strike from the free list hemp manila, and other like substitutes for hemp lost.

Kelley moved to strike from the free list jute butts He sent to the clerk's desk and had read a report from the agricultural department upon the subject of jute production Before the reading was completed Kelley's time expired and he asked to withdraw the amendment and offer a formal amendment to strike out the last word in order that he might obtain time to have the reading concluded.

Scott of Pennsylvania inquired whether it was in order for the gentleman to withdraw his amendment and upon the chair's replying in the negative objected to Kelley's request.

The question recurring on Kelley's motion to strike out jute butts the republicans refrained from voting, and left the committee without a quorum A call of the committee was ordered, and 209 members responded. Then Kelley and Scott were appointed tellers to count the vote upon Kelley's motion, but the count progressed slowly owing to the refusal of the republicans to vote During the progress of the count, Breckenridge, of Arkansas made a remark reflecting upon the action of the republicans in filibustering, which called forth an indignant declaration from Kelley that he did not propose to be lectured while he was performing a duty to which he had been assigned by the chair even by such a distinguished person as the gentleman from Arkansas.

After considerable colloquy Breckenridge of Arkansas, inquired whether the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Kelley) was willing it should go out to the country that the republicans were filibustering against the bill

Kelley expressed his willingness that the country should know that he was resisting an attempt at tyranny

The vote then proceeded but no quorum voted and another roll call was ordered

Some warmth was shown throughout the colloquy but by earnest efforts made by the chairman and Cannon of Illinois and McMillan of Tennessee good nature was again restored and the floor was accorded to Scott who disclaimed any intention of being factious in his objection to the withdrawal of Mr Kelley's motion, but when formal amendment were made merely for the purpose of delay he believed it his duty, in the interest of the men of the country whose interests were more or less jeopardized even by discussion of the bill, to endeavor to secure a vote upon the measure so the business men of the country would know what they had to do in order to manage their affairs He had no other object in view

Kelley then offered his formal amendment to strike out the last word and protested that he had offered no amendment during the ten or twelve days of the discussion [...] other than [...] able and patriotic reasons He withdrew his formal amendment, and the motion to strike jute butts from the free list was defeated

The committee rose and the house adjourned

THE TARIFF BILL

An Effort by the Democrats to Hasten Action in the House

WASHINGTON June 12.—Democratic members of the ways and means committee were in consultation for some time to-day in pursuance of an effort to abridge the five minute debate on the tariff bill Taking advantage of a desire of a number of republicans to have consideration of the bill suspended long enough to allow them to attend the Chicago convention the democrats offered to consent to postponement if the republicans would agree to take a final vote upon the bill at a fixed date No agreement was reached however The democrats have not abandoned hope of the acceptance of such a proposition particularly when they have succeeded in convincing the republicans of their purpose to pass the bill or at least to have a final vote upon it even if it should become necessary to remain in Washington until next December

DEATH OF MRS SHERIDAN

The Sad News Kept from Her Son the General

SOMERSET Ohio June 7.—The mother of General Sheridan died to-day

Mrs Sheridan was born in county Cavan Ireland and came to the United States in 1878 and to Ohio in 183.. She was modest in appearance, her stature was small and her weight of late did not exceed seventy pounds She lived in the home which the general purchased for the family prior to the war The mother surely was provided with all heart could wish of this world's store Reports concerning the dangerous condition of her son were studiously kept from her but she knew he was sick

NO CHANGE

WASHINGTON June 12.—9 A M —General Sheridan passed a quiet night but was a little disturbed after midnight by coughing His general condition this morning is about the same

It was stated at Sheridan's residence this afternoon at 2 30 that the general is doing remarkably well He has rested quietly all morning and his sleep is not broken by fits of coughing He relishes what he eats and his appetite seems to be growing

WASHINGTON June 12 10 P M —There is no change in Gen Sheridan's condition His pulse is 104 to 106 and of fair volume and tension He coughs very little and respiration remains irregular He takes plenty of nourishment without indications of failure of digestion and assimilation There will not be another bulletin issued until to-morrow morning The general has not been informed of the death of his mother

12 to A M —Gen Sheridan's condition remains the same as when the 10 o'clock bulletin was issued

DARK HORSES COMING ON THE TRACK

What Mr Randall Said When He Heard the News From Oregon—Republicans Confident of Victory Under Any Banner

WASHINGTON June 12.—Sam Randall, who is a good deal better politician than any of the new men who have sprung up about Cleveland, lets fall now and then to his intimates his view of the present political situation He is too cautious and too thoroughly disciplined to be blatant and loud mouthed in his denunciation of the president's free trade policy He feels deep resentment, too at the brutal manner in which the administration has endeavored to crush him but no word of complaint to the public has escaped his lips. Sometimes to his friends he hits off the situation in a pithy sentence When he heard of the great majority that the republicans rolled up in Oregon he said to a friend "The democrats won't know that they are running this time

It is amazing how the republicans have become imbued with the idea which Sam Randall expressed There is new hope and new life given to the party here and the confidence in success has gone almost to the verge of rashness Republicans feel that the Southern free traders have practically thrown the presidency into the lap of the party and with all this buoyancy and newly developed energy, there has appeared no narrow mindedness among the many aspirants for the republican nomination There is to be no 306 feeling at the next Chicago convention The friends of no candidate have become so rancorous as to say "this man or no one shall be nominated" There is no such cry as this, on more than one occasion, been raised of anything to beat this man or that man The greatest catholicity of feeling prevails and no deep and lasting enmities or antagonisms have sprung up to cripple or maim the successful candidate This is the most striking feature of the contest, and it is difficult in this condition of affairs to get positive expressions of feeling from leading public men in the city While each may have his preference, the claims of other candidates seem to him so strong and the running qualities of them all seem so nearly equal, that he hesitated to declare for one or other

A TALK WITH ALLISON

I met Senator Allison in the Marble room of the senate this morning and had some conversation with him in regard to what the senate would probably do with the sugar schedule in the Mills bill and after he had expressed his opinion on that subject, he turned the conversation to his candidacy for the presidency Allison is at the height of his vigor most agreeable and gentle in manner frank and simple, and sincere in his way of thinking and talking Allison said in reply to a question

"I have made no special effort to secure the nomination I do not know whether a man can secure such a great honor as to be nominated by the republican party without systematically working for it I have established no literary bureau I have sent no agents here and there to encourage or develop feeling for me I have done nothing of that sort. My state I believe is sincerely and enthusiastically for my nomination What support I shall have in the convention will be spontaneous and not manufactured by any political artifices

SENATOR PLUMB'S OPINION

I asked Senator Plumb of Kansas who he thought the choice of the Chicago convention would be He said

"I have hoped for a long while that the West would pay Allison the tribute which he deserves. He has done much for the West He is in sympathy with all of its aspirations He is a good man in the very best sense of that term, and I hope that the West will give him generous and liberal support The Harrison of Indiana is also a good man I trust the convention at Chicago will act deliberately, and decide on their best judgment The situation is peculiar on account of the strong desire among many people to nominate Blaine in spite of his two letters I find upon talking with a great many people that there still remains a hope that he will be nominated It seems to me that they let go of him after he wrote his first letter only to take a better second hold and I believe the same thing is being repeated after his second letter It is not at all improbable that Blaine will be nominated

H[...] of New York is in the same condition of waiting and watching and reflecting that prevails among most of the republicans here To a prominent Californian here he said to-day "Let the Pacific coast in the convention keep out of all entanglements let the delegates keep cool Do not let them commit themselves too early and I tell you if they do that the Pacific coast will name the candidate

IN CONNECTICUT

Representative Russell of Connecticut, is the only republican in the house from that state Connecticut is to be one of the great battle grounds in the next fight He said to-night "Connecticut is democratic by 2500 votes, when there is no great issue at stake The republicans usually elect two senators because of the peculiar representation given to towns in the legislature Each town has one member and a second member if it has a greater population than 5000 New Haven has only as many members in the state legislature as many towns not a quarter as large. It is the principle not the man that we are going to fight for in the next campaign We are not particular which one of three or four men is nominated I don't think Connecticut has been so alarmed and aroused for many years as it is now by the free trade policy which the southern portion of the democracy is forcing upon the country I find that great fear prevails all over Connecticut of disaster and distress which is impending Public feeling is deeply stirred and the republicans are bound to fight for the principle of protection. In ordinary times I am confident that any fairly good man whom the republicans will nominate and who is for protection will carry the state Senator Stewart thinks the delegates to the convention from the Pacific coast should meet as soon as they arrive in Chicago and decide to act together on all questions. If California Nevada Oregon and the territories, whose interests are practically identical determine to vote together they can practically secure what they want.

Senator Teller in his brief opinion, expressed the voice of most of the republican senators Spooner Cullom Hawley and others have almost the same feeling in regard to the selection of the nominee as Senator Teller This shows how lightly lines are drawn between the candidates and how little acrimony there is among them.

M KINLEY AS A DARK HORSE

In the house there is a strong undercurrent for one man Allison has his friends there and Gresham and other aspirants, but the predominant preference among nearly all the prominent republican representatives as well as among those less widely known is for this one of their number If there be one dark horse in the race this one man is McKinley of Ohio It is astonishing what enthusiasm has been awakened for him since his masterly speech on the tariff Tom Reed of Maine who is almost dumb in his reticence on his preference for this candidate or that candidate is known among his friends to greatly desire McKinley's nomination. Burrows of Michigan member of the committee on ways and means and one of the ablest men in the house is warmly in favor of McKinley Gov Long of Massachusetts thinks McKinley is the strongest man in the party after Blaine McKinley has some of the traits of Mr Blaine in a marked degree He is an orator of the very highest order He combines emotion and intellect so that it is difficult to say whether his hearers are more moved by the conviction which he induces or by the feeling which he arouses

AT CHICAGO

The Work of Preparing the Great Hall for the Convention

CHICAGO June 12.—To-night the three thousand electric lights were turned on in the great hall where the national republican convention is to be held The lighting up of the auditorium afforded a magnificent spectacle Long streams of red, white and blue bunting not yet fully in place, gave picturesqueness to the scene The turning on of the light was an experiment by the architects for determining the best arrangement of decoration

Quite a number of leading members of the republican national committee are in the city to-night Powell Clayton of Arkansas, J C New of Indiana and Cyrus I Land of Kansas, are the latest arrivals Others present are Clarkson of Iowa and Conger of Ohio The question of temporary and permanent chairman of the convention is being freely discussed. It is now generally believed that one of the officers will be Senator Warner Miller of New York, and the other John M Thurston of Nebraska. Should Miller be chosen temporary chairman, Thurston will be permanent chairman, and vice versa. Both gentlemen are described as able parliamentarians

Cyrus Leland says Kansas will give Senator Ingalls a complimentary vote and then be disposed to let the doubtful states—New York New Jersey, Connecticut and Indiana—name the winning man

Powell Clayton says the Arkansas delegates were unanimously for Blaine, but now they are in doubt, and look for light from New York

A. L. Conger says "On the first ballot Sherman will poll over 300 votes, and a number far in advance of the aggregate of any other candidate, and and we hope to settle the matter on the second or third ballot."

The Alger men are making preparations for a reunion of soldier friends that are to be here.

Allison's friends were reinforced by Congressmen Hepburn and Henderson

C W Fairbanks, of Indianapolis, was among the many who put in an appearance for Gresham.

John C New brings a large following, all solid supporters of Harrison. He says every county in his state has pronounced for Senator Harrison, and that there is no sentiment in the state for Gresham.

A DARK HORSE.

Mayor Fitler of Philadelphia to be a Candidate at Chicago.

PHILADELPHIA, June 12.—The Press to-morrow will say The movement to present Mayor Edwin H Fitler as Pennsylvania's candidate for the republican presidential nomination yesterday assumed a most significant character It took such shape as to justify the expectation that he will receive the support of a majority of the delegation of the state, and perhaps the whole. The Philadelphia delegates had declared for the mayor, and yesterday Col. Quay, while still indicating that he would go to Senator Sherman in the end, announced that he would vote for Mayor Fitler at the outset, and advised the delegates from the state to do so. This points to substantial unanimity for the mayor

TAMMANY HALL RATIFIES

Gov Hill's Opinion of the Platform and the Tariff Plank

NEW YORK, June 12.—Tammany held a large meeting in the Academy of Music to-night to ratify the action of the St. Louis convention The The Tammany lamb Thurman" which was brought from the west, all decked in ribbons, was a feature of the meeting Hon. John Cochrane presided and there was a list of 100 vice-presidents and secretaries. Resolutions were passed ratifying the nominations made and the platform put forth by the convention.

Gov Hill was the first speaker In the course of his remarks he took occasion to reply to the remarks of Senator Ingalls in a recent speech, in which the latter said "The nomination and election of Grover Cleveland have made the pretensions of any American citizen to the presidency respectable. Gov Hill said he agreed with Ingalls—not in the sense meant by the president of the senate but in the sense that any man however obscure might aspire to that lofty position Intending an insult to the president and the democratic party, he had unconsciously paid tribute to both, and to American institutions Concerning the platform, Gov. Hill said We favor freer trade, but not free trade The democratic platform, while not in every respect as some of us might desire it, sufficiently expresses the principle of tariff reform to which we are all committed If I thought our platform favored free trade I should not be here to-night I believe in revision in the interest of the people and not of monopolies We may differ about details of tariff measures but we are all agreed upon the main and essential principles of our platform, which is that unnecessary taxation shall cease, and that favoritism shall not be the controlling feature of our tariff legislation

At another point in his address he says "But notwithstanding the attitude of their representatives in congress, and their persistent opposition to all measures for relief from taxation, I venture the prediction that in the forthcoming Chicago convention their platform will explicitly declare in favor of some revision of the tariff They will find that public sentiment will be too strong to be longer resisted and they will endeavor to ride with the current

He replied to the charge that Thurman was too old for the vice-presidency by stating the ages of many prominent men of the present and past in this country

Addresses were also made by Congressman Cochrane and ex-Gov Abbett of New Jersey

MAINE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

The Most Enthusiastic Political Gathering in That State for Years.

PORTLAND, Me, June 12.—The republican state convention bids fair to be the largest and most enthusiastic held here for years. At 11 o'clock the convention hall was packed, fully 3000 persons being present. Chairman Manly called the convention to order, and after prayer Hon. Andrew P. Wiswel temporary chairman, delivered the opening address. A large portion of this speech was devoted to criticising the action of the president in not sustaining his civil service reform theories and in his failure to meet the fisheries question. The president's free trade message was adversely commented on, and compared with the action of Blaine whose outspoken utterances were commended by the speaker He said that Maine was largely interested in the tariff bill which would disastrously affect the lumber interests of the state The people have had enough of three years' democratic administration with its blunders, and they now want a president who will protect American citizens on land or sea, and that man was James G Blaine but if they could not have him the republicans of Maine would follow with unbroken ranks the leadership of the Chicago nominee Allusions to Blaine were received with enthusiastic applause repeated again and again.

THE PROCEEDINGS.

Burleigh was nominated for governor on the first ballot

The platform adopted contains the following tariff plank

Resolved That free trade as taught by the British Cobden Club and supported by Grover Cleveland and the democratic party, is hostile to the industrial and business interests of the United States, and that the Mills tariff bill should be opposed by all the honorable and effective influences which the friends of American labor can exert, both in congress and among the people.

Resolved That it is the duty of congress to reduce the national revenues to an amount which will equal as nearly as possible, all the expenditures of the government including therein liberal provision for our veteran soldiers and proper means of national defense and this should be done in a way not to impair our republican protective system which has proved of so inestimable value to American labor and our home markets

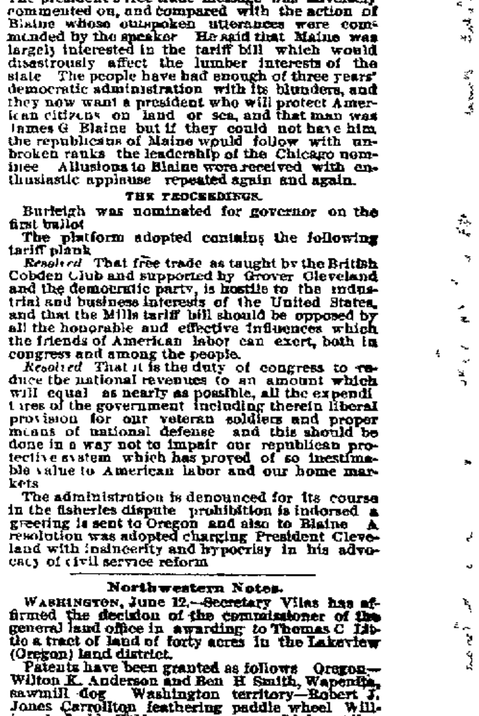

The administration is denounced for its course in the fisheries dispute prohibition is indorsed a greeting is sent to Oregon and also to Blaine A resolution was adopted charging President Cleveland with insincerity and hypocrisy in his advocacy of civil service reform

An Astoria Cannery Totally Destroyed by Fire.

A FARMERS' CONGRESS ORGANIZED.

Events in Washington Territory—Serious Shooting Affray in Morrow County—Notes from Northwest Points.

Astoria, Or., June 12.—The White Star cannery was totally destroyed by fire at 3:30 this afternoon. The cannery was situated in upper town, a mile and a half from the center of the city. In nine minutes from the sounding of the alarm the Astoria fire department was on the ground with two steam fire engines and a hook and ladder cart. Two streams were put on, but a heavy wind was blowing from the west and the cannery was soon one sheet of flame. The firemen kept the fire from spreading. Thirty feet east of the cannery is the Astoria box factory, with great piles of lumber and a $30,000 plant, and west and south are dwellings and business houses, but the fire was held where it originated. The building, premises, piling, etc., were entirely destroyed.

The cannery was not run this season. It was built in 1880 by Reed, Tichnor, Brakke and Gallagher, and sold to the White Star Packing Company. It was in litigation last year, and lastly was owned by Elmore, of Sanborn. The proprietors estimate the loss at $15,000; insurance $11,000. The cannery will not be rebuilt. The fire is believed to have caught from a spark from the smokestack of the Astoria box factory.

THE FARMERS' CONGRESS.

Proceedings of its Organization for this State at Salem.

Salem, June 12.—Pursuant to the call of John Osborn, vice-president for Oregon of the Farmers' National congress, a meeting of farmers and other citizens from all parts of the Willamette valley convened at the opera house in Salem this morning and temporarily organized by the election of John Osborn as chairman, and John Minto secretary. Mr. Osborn addressed the meeting, explaining its objects.

On motion a committee of three, consisting of J. T. Apperson, W. R. Kirk and John Minto, was appointed to report a plan of organization, and after retiring for consultation they recommended a permanent organization of a farmers' congress for the state of Oregon.

The following were then elected permanent officers: President, M. Wilkins; vice-president, John Osborn; secretary and treasurer, Joseph Gaston. Addresses were made by the president, S. A. Clarke and others.

A committee of three, consisting of John Osborn, John Minto and John Ferguson, was appointed to prepare a constitution and by-laws and report at the next regular meeting.

Messrs. J. T. Apperson, John Minto and S. A. Clarke were appointed a committee to prepare and publish an address to the farmers of the state, prior to the next meeting, explanatory of the objects of the organization.

The next regular meeting was appointed for the fair grounds, Salem, September 18, 1888.

The following names were then enrolled for membership: Lane county, M. Wilkins; Benton, John W. Osborn; Linn, W. R. Kirk and J. J. [illegible]; Marion, John Osborn, John Minto, Charles Miller, S. M. Rice, J. B. Henninger, W. H. Smith, R. W. Carey, Oliver Jory, J. C. Howard, R. Lee, J. W. Fate, D. M. Morris, S. A. Clarke and Wm. [illegible]; Polk, A. W. Lucas, G. T. Waite, John Ferguson, Ben Windsor, C. Glenn, Case Riggs, J. B. [illegible]; Jas. K. Sears; Yamhill, M. Underwood; Clackamas, J. T. Apperson; Multnomah, Joseph Gaston. Adjourned.

TERRITORIAL NEWS.

Chinese Laundrymen Driven from Mt. Vernon—Seattle News.

Seattle, June 12.—The Seattle, Lake Shore & Eastern railroad have begun an equity suit against I. G. Kenyon. Kenyon gave a quit claim deed to a thirty-foot track along the water front to the company, and also the land adjacent. The company discovered that the deed contains a clause giving the donor the right to pile over the company's right of way to deep water. In fact, reserves the right to pile from his property out to the railroad, over it and to deep water, although his property is separated from the railroad by a twenty-five foot alley. The suit is begun to remove this cloud from the title.

Word comes from Mt. Vernon, Skagit county, that two Chinamen who went there to start a laundry were driven out by the citizens. Capt. Benson, of the steamer City of Quincy, states that when the steamer was about to leave this morning at 7:30 the two and fourteen other Chinamen were put aboard by several men and their fares paid to Seattle. They ordered the captain to "pull out, you have got some passengers aboard." The two would-be laundrymen had paid $20 advance rent on a building at Mt. Vernon, which has not been refunded. The Chinamen will appeal to their minister for protection on damages.

A force of railroad builders have begun work on the Bradley branch of the Seattle, Lake Shore & Eastern railroad. When completed, this will double the output of that company's coal, as the Bradley coal mines are very promising. Work on the Kirkland branch will also commence as soon as the surveyors complete their work.

Gov. Watson C. Squire leaves for the East tomorrow. He will attend the Chicago convention.

The [illegible] Flouring Mill Company, with a capital stock of $70,000, filed articles of incorporation to-day. The object is to build and operate a mill at Seattle. A site has been purchased and the contract for building will soon be let.

Articles of incorporation of the West Seattle Land Improvement Company were filed in the auditor's office this morning. The capital is $1,000,000. The object is to build and improve wharves, docks, warehouses and railroads, and to establish ferry lines between West Seattle and Seattle. Incorporators: Thos. Ewing, of California; John Leary, Jacob Leigh, [illegible] West Seattle, [illegible] for $30,000 cash. They have received a franchise from the city to run a ferry line.

Jens Olson, a laborer, while under the influence of liquor, went to sleep in the Columbia & Puget Sound railroad depot, and when he awoke discovered the loss of his watch and $25. There is no clue to the robbers. A new paper has been started in North Seattle. It is called the Advocate, is a weekly and purely local.

SHOT IN THE NECK.

A Serious Affair at Heppner—The Assailant at Large.

Castle Rock, Or., June 12.—Ben Matlock shot Al. Larkin at Heppner, yesterday, the ball entering the right side of the neck, just above the collar bone, passing out above the shoulder blade, and barely missing a large artery. Larkin has even chances for getting well. Matlock is at large. Larkin was on crutches at the time, having been hurt by a horse last week.

FROM SALEM.

Annual Meeting of Willamette University Trustees—Local Notes.

Salem, June 12.—The trustees of the Willamette University held their annual meeting to-day. W. H. Odell was elected president of the board, E. [illegible] vice-president, and C. B. Moores secretary and treasurer. Rev. J. E. Parrish was made honorary president. Miss H. Hanson, formerly of the territorial university at Seattle, was chosen dean of the Women's College, and Dr. S. P. Frazer was elected dean of the Medical College at Portland. The literary faculty were all re-elected. By vote of the board it was decided to confer degrees as follows: P. H. Willis, principal of Wasco Independent Academy, A. M., in cursu; Herbert H. Fisk, professor in the Northwestern University at Evanston, Ills., doctor of divinity; Rev. J. F. DeVore, of Tacoma, W. T., doctor of divinity; Dr. J. O. Wythe, formerly president of the university, doctor of laws.

Ah Sum, alias Jaybird, a Chinaman known in criminal courts all over the coast, died at the penitentiary last night. He was serving an eight year sentence from Marion, for larceny in a dwelling.

To-day, in the circuit court Peter McCue, an old man aged 71, pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny in a dwelling and was given three years in the penitentiary.

Gov. Pennoyer has appointed the following notaries public: C. S. Williamson, Wheatland; S. N. McDonald, Helix, Umatilla county; W. Y. Masters, Portland; W. S. Eberle, Portland; Joseph L. Meltath, Sellwood; J. J. Whitney, Albany; Sidney C. Gatching, Portland.

FROM WALLA WALLA.

Annual Reunion of Pioneers—A Volapuk Club Organized.

Walla Walla, June 12.—The second annual reunion of the Walla Walla Pioneers' Association was held to-day. Nineveh Ford and John L. [illegible] made addresses. MOTHER'S TERRIBLE CRIME.

She Poisons Her Two Children and Probably Her Husband.

Philadelphia, June 12.—A decided sensation was created at the police office when Mrs. Sarah Jane Whiteling voluntarily confessed that she had poisoned her two children, and had furnished her husband with poison, with which, she declares, he took his own life, on account of despondency caused by poverty. Mrs. Whiteling poisoned her seven-year-old daughter Bertha, and a boy, Willie, 2 years old. The family lived in poverty in the rear of 2237 Cadwallader street. The husband died on March 20 last, the girl on April 24, and the little boy on May 20. Detectives worked at her for a confession, but until to-day were unsuccessful. Finally the woman broke down from her weight of the awful secret and made a clean breast of the whole affair. She stoutly maintained that she did not administer poison to her husband, and Bertha, she says, she killed because she did not want her to grow up bad, and the girl already had a propensity for stealing. The little boy she killed because he was in the way. She says she is sorry now and wants people to pray for her.

So well did she play her part that when the children and husband were ill the physician in each case gave a certificate of death from natural causes. Mrs. Whiteling professed great piety, and on Sunday last went to church in the neighborhood of her home, and kneeling at the altar rail asked the prayers of the congregation for forgiveness of her sins.

Post mortem examinations disclosed the fact of the poisoning and the woman was arrested Sunday night. There were several policies of insurance on the lives of the woman's victims, each of the children and the husband being insured for small amounts, but amounting in aggregate to [illegible], all of which she collected.

THE ST. LOUIS TELEPHONE FIGHT.

The Bell Company Getting the Worst of the Struggle.

St. Louis, June 12.—The Bell Telephone Company have taken out 151 telephones since the recent ordinance was passed to reduce the rental from $100 to $50. Mayor Francis's order to take down the poles and wires brought out a proposition yesterday from the Bell Company, that the city of St. Louis make immediate application to the supreme court of Missouri for an alternate writ of mandamus, directed to the Bell Company, such writ to require the company to show cause why a peremptory writ should not issue commanding it to furnish to St. Louis one or more telephones at an annual charge not exceeding $50. To this Mayor Francis this morning replied, refusing to make such application, with the following caustic conclusion: "The ordinance you refer to does not compel you to maintain a telephone service. It established a rate at which business may be carried on. Instead of obeying the ordinance, you have seen fit to relinquish the business. You are no longer a telephone company. I shall not undertake the idle task of applying to the court to compel you to be a telephone company. The order heretofore issued by me for the removal of your poles and wires from the public highways will be executed."

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS IN CONCLAVE.

An Immense Gathering of the Order in Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, June 12.—The thirteenth biennial conclave of the supreme lodge of the Knights of Pythias began its session to-day. Probably 15,000 to 20,000 Pythians have arrived. It is understood that the prime chancellor will recommend in his report the expulsion of the rebellious Pennsylvania officers.

SPORTING NOTES.

The Jerome Park Races.

New York, June 12.—The meeting at Jerome park closed to-day. The weather was fine and the track fast. In the steeplechase seven horses started, but before the finish four of them fell, Harry Mann being killed with a broken neck.

For two-year-olds, five furlongs—Ransom won, Hayward second, Howe third; time, 1:03½.

One mile and a furlong—Brown Duke won, Refund second, Winona third; time, 2:00.

One mile and three furlongs—Belvidere won, Lelogos second; time, 2:26½.

Fourteen hundred yards—Cyclone colt won, Laredo second, Glimax third; time, 1:21.

One mile and a sixteenth—Firefly won, Glenspray second, Bordelaise third; time, 1:53.

Handicap steeplechase, over the full course—Willie Palmer won, Glenbar second, John Henry third; no time.

Kansas City Races.

Kansas City, June 12.—The opening day of the races at Waldo park drew an attendance of over 5000. The weather was fine and the track fast.

Three-fourths mile—Egmont won, Barrister second, Tom Boylon third; time, 1:15½.

One mile—Bonnie King won, Berlin second, John Daly third; time, 1:46.

Five furlongs, for maiden two-year-olds—Middlemarch won, Thankful second, Heeley John third; time, 1:07¼.

Kansas City derby, one and a half miles—Macbeth won, Wheeler T. second, Alexandria third; time, 2:45¾.

Seven furlongs—Persimmons won, Little Minch second, Clara Moore third; time, 1:28¼.

Knocked Out.

Pittsburg, June 12.—A prize fight took place in a private room in this city between Mike Coburn and Jack Hanlon, of New York. The contest was under the Marquis of Queensbury rules, with small gloves. When the men stepped into the ring Coburn weighed 130 pounds and Hanlon 138. The fighting was terrific. In the first two rounds Coburn had decidedly the best of it, but in the third Hanlon dealt him a powerful blow on the jugular, knocking him senseless. He was picked up and it was fully four minutes before he recovered consciousness. The fight and stakes were then awarded to Hanlon. The mill was for $200 a side and receipts.

Baseball.

New York, June 12.—The Colts defeated the Giants again to-day. Keefe was hit hard in the first innings, and evidently getting somewhat nervous, retired in the right field, while Ryan came into the box. The latter pitched a good game. Batteries, Keefe and Brown for New York; Brothers, Ryan and Daly for Chicago. Score, New York 2, Chicago 4.

Boston, June 12.—The game to-day was tame. Both teams played poorly. Batteries, Radbourne and Kelly for Boston; Gruber and Ganzel for Detroit. Score, Boston 5, Detroit 2.

Washington, June 12.—Indianapolis played a worse game than Washington to-day, and that was bad enough. Both teams were weak in the field. The batteries were O'Day and Dealy for Washington, and Shreve and Buckley for Indianapolis. Score—Washington 5, Indianapolis 1.

Philadelphia, June 12.—The game to-day was not very interesting. Galvin's pitching was good, but his support was very poor. Batteries—Gleason and Clements for Philadelphia, Galvin and Miller for Pittsburg. Score—Philadelphia 4, Pittsburg 3.

St. Louis, June 12.—St. Louis 8, Kansas City 7.

Baltimore, June 12.—Baltimore 2, Athletics 4.

Brooklyn, June 12.—Cleveland 5, Brooklyn 8.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Vermont Prohibition Convention.

Montpelier, Vt., June 12.—The state prohibition convention nominated the following ticket: Governor, H. Seeley, Middlebury; lieutenant-governor, Charles Crowell, Brattleboro; secretary of state, Archibald Ferguson, of Burlington; auditor, C. S. Parker, of Elmore; treasurer, A. D. Bixby, of Poultney. Candidates for congressmen were also nominated. Resolutions were adopted stamping the manufacture and traffic in alcoholic liquors as a high crime, demanding rigid prohibition amendments to the state and national constitution, and laws favoring woman suffrage, and calling for abolition of the internal revenue system.

The California Delegation.

San Francisco, June 12.—The California republican delegation to the Chicago convention left Ogden this morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Salt Lake, June 12.—The Pacific coast republican delegation en route to Chicago arrived this morning, and the day was spent by the delegates in viewing the places of interest in the city. After a visit to Great Salt Lake by special train, they proceeded on their way East.

Working for Alger.

Baltimore, June 12.—Delegates from various counties of Maryland and wards of Baltimore representing sections of the Logan Invincibles, met in this city to-night, and endorsed the presidential aspirations of Gen. Russell A. Alger, of Michigan, and suggested Hon. Levi P. Morton, of New York, for vice president.

Still Howling for Blaine.

New York, June 12.—At a meeting of the union republican club to-night, resolutions were passed expressing a hope that James G. Blaine will be selected as the standard bearer by the convention at Chicago, despite his letter declining to run.

The Union Labor Party.

Waterville, Me., June 12.—The union labor party held a convention to-day and adopted a platform based on the national platform and nominated a state ticket.

Heavy Seizure of Opium.

St. Louis, June 12.—Surveyor of the port R. D. Lancaster yesterday afternoon swooped down upon [illegible] at the Wabash freight depot, marked [illegible] Lewis, Tulare, California, and deposited it in the United States government warehouse where it was opened and found to contain 200 cans filled with opium aggregating 686 pounds. [illegible] The commercial value is [illegible]. The officials will give no information, but this seizure is apparently a general attack along the line and developments are promised shortly that may implicate many officials in the customs service. So far as could be learned to-day, the opium is shipped to interior ports of entry and from there [illegible] the Mahoning & Pennsylvania, or properly as the New Mahoning & Western railroad. To meet these, a gentleman addressed Dr. Norvin Green, who was elected president of the company recently a letter of inquiry, and received to-day a reply in which Dr. Green says the enterprise is a good one. He believes the company will have no serious difficulty in raising funds for the early completion of their line of road across the state of Ohio eastward to the Pennsylvania line near Youngstown, and westward through Indiana as far as Fort Wayne. It is contemplated that this road shall form part of the long-projected American Midland railway, from New York to Chicago on or near the 41st parallel, and on which much work has been done in various places.

[illegible]

Heavy Loss in Earnings.

New York, June 12.—The Chicago & Northwestern was sold without a dividend yesterday, though till yesterday the road's Wall street friends have been able to keep it firm, regardless of every depressing influence. Official report of a loss of $400,000 in the earnings for the first five months of the year has much to do with the stock's sudden weakness, though another influence, which was not until now generally known, may have some effect. The Union Pacific has perfected plans of an extension into territory where the Northwestern has had a big and profitable carrying business.

"The Crystal Slipper."

Chicago, June 12.—The Chicago opera house was crowded to-day by a fashionable audience, gathered to witness the first performance of the spectacular extravaganza, "The Crystal Slipper," or "Prince Prettiwitz and Little Cinderella," by Alfred Thompson and Harry Smith. The production was a success. The scenery and the costumes are the grandest yet seen here. The music provided is pleasing, and the libretto possesses considerable merit. The ballets were original and beautifully costumed.

The Irish National League.

Cleveland, June 12.—About twenty-five members of the executive committee of the Irish National league met here to-day to decide on the city in which to hold the next convention. In secret session resolutions of sympathy for Gen. Sheridan because of the death of his mother were passed. The pope's rescript was briefly referred to. Tomorrow the regular session will begin. It is the sentiment of the committeemen that no general convention will be held this year.

An Indian Murderer Convicted.

Wadsworth, June 12.—The Indian court at Pyramid agency has convicted Willie Dunn, a Piute, and yesterday sentenced him to be hanged for the murder of Charlie Winnemucca, son of the deceased chief of all the Piutes. Dunn was intoxicated, and attacked his victim with a sharp knife, nearly severing his head from the body. The findings of the court will be sent to Washington for approval.

The Dis Debar Trial.

New York, June 12.—In the Dis Debar case today the "general" denied that he painted the "spook pictures," but admitted his illicit relations with the madame. The "lady," in her testimony, gave a rambling account of her life, similar to that already published, and went into a paroxysm of rage over the testimony of the Solomons, her brother and sister.

The Colored Masons.

Chicago, June 12.—The colored Masons closed their session to-day, electing Thomas Smith, of Marysville, M. W. grand master. The next session convenes in Marysville, in June, 1890.

A Fortune Awaits Him.

Boston, June 12.—A fortune of $15,000 is awaiting John Andrew Barnes, of Marysville, San Diego county, Cal., or its vicinity, when he will only come East to get it.

Killed His Son-in-Law.

Altoona, Pa., June 12.—A man named Glass, residing at Glasgo, killed his son-in-law, yesterday and mortally wounded himself. Domestic trouble was the cause.

Death of Mrs. Pope.

St. Louis, June 12.—Mrs. Clara P. H. Pope, wife of Maj.-Gen. Pope, died at the family residence in this city yesterday, and will be buried to-morrow.

Grand Orange Lodge.

Cleveland, June 12.—The grand Orange lodge began its nineteenth annual session here to-day.

Bond Offerings.

New York, June 12.—Bond offerings to-day $2,678,000; acceptances, $2,165,600.

THE EMPEROR'S CONDITION.

He Finds Great Difficulty in Taking Nourishment.

Potsdam, June 12.—A bulletin issued at 9:30 this morning says the difficulty in swallowing, which has troubled the emperor recently has increased, and the taking of nourishment is becoming difficult. The emperor feels weaker this morning.

London, June 12.—The Prince of Wales this morning received a telegram from Potsdam stating that the condition of Emperor Frederick was serious. The prince, on receipt of the telegram, ordered that the usual state procession to Ascot Heath be abandoned.

Potsdam, June 12.—It is considered by the emperor's physician that the disease has possibly reached the œsophagus. At the same time they consider that the difficulty he experiences in taking nourishment may be temporary.

London, June 12.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Berlin states that the emperor can only take food by artificial means.

GREAT ANXIETY PREVAILS.

Berlin, June 12, 6:30 P. M.—Although the emperor is slightly better, great anxiety prevails. Through some changes, as to the exact nature of which the doctors are uncertain, the cartilage of the epiglottis has become permeable, allowing particles of food and liquids to enter the air-tubes, the result being attacks of coughing and choking. Whether any of the recent abscesses broke through the partition between the larynx and the œsophagus, or whether the epiglottis has been attacked by malignant disease, the doctors are unable to determine. The emperor is rapidly weakening.

HIS CASE ALMOST HOPELESS.

Berlin, June 12.—The doctors admit that the emperor is in an almost hopeless condition. The crown prince was summoned to the palace at midnight.

The crown princess visited the emperor at 4 o'clock. At 6:30 P. M. the emperor went to the terrace and remained an hour. Later there was a change for the worse, and he became very feverish. He can be fed only by artificial means.

A REGENT TO BE APPOINTED.

Berlin, June 12.—It is reported that if the emperor does not improve, a regent will be appointed to-morrow. It was hoped that the difficulty in swallowing was due to temporary paralysis of the epiglottis. This hope, however, has proved to be fallacious. The local disease appears to have reached the mouth of the gullet. The wall and cartilages between the latter and the windpipe are partly destroyed, or at least affected.

A GOVERNMENT DEFEAT.

The Opposition Greatly Elated Over Their Victory.

London, June 12.—In the commons to-night Louis T. Jennings, progressive conservative, introduced a resolution directed against frequent reorganization of the financial and secretarial departments of the admiralty, resulting in extravagant and premature premiums and bonuses. The resolution was opposed by the government and supported by Lord Charles Beresford and others. On division it was adopted, 113 to 94. The opposition are greatly elated over their victory.

ENGLAND.

Burrard's Inlet and Esquimalt.

London, June 12.—The advantages of Burrard's Inlet as compared with Esquimalt, for a British naval station on the Pacific coast, were presented in the chamber of peers last night. Lord Elphinstone, in behalf of the government, said the authorities were divided, but after consultation it had been considered unwise to remove the station from Esquimalt. He also said that the Inlet would prove only a trap in time of war for ships. The government is prepared to spend £31,000 on armaments at Esquimalt, £10,000 on submarine stores, and £10,000 on submarine structures. The real question for the present for the imperial government and for Canada, is the one of garrison.

The Ascot Races.

London, June 12.—This was the first day of the Ascot heath meeting. The race for the Ascot stakes was won by Dan Dancer, Chippeway second, Banter third. There were ten starters.

The Ascot biennial stakes were won by Gold.

The triennial stakes were won by Dante.

The gold vase was won by Blake's 5-year-old bay horse Exmore, with Lord Lurgan's 3-year-old bay colt Cotillion second, and Lord Lascelle's 3-year-old chestnut colt Ostric third. Aumont's 4-year-old bay filly Tenebruise and Craven's 3-year-old bay colt Scene Shifter, also ran.

The race for the Prince of Wales stakes was won by the Duke of Westminster's chestnut colt Ossory, the Duke of St. Albany's bay colt Gallore second, and A. Taylor's chestnut colt Nether Avon third.

The Local Government Bill.

London, June 12.—In the house of commons to-day, Smith, first lord of the treasury, announced that all licensing clauses in the civil government bill would be abandoned.

CABLE NOTES.

Heavy Fire at Panama.

New York, June 12.—Advices from Panama to the 4th inst. say that on the Sunday previous an incendiary fire originated in a hut next to the Hotel Roma, and the latter, together with a block and a half of other buildings, was destroyed. The loss is over $200,000.

A Husband's Insane Crime.

Paris, June 12.—Commandant Horeot, proprietor of the Louvre, and a warm advocate of the Boulanger cause, during a fit of temporary mental aberration to-day shot his young wife and then shot himself. Both are in a critical condition.

A Cabinet Crisis.

Madrid, June 12.—General Campos having asked Premier Sagasta to accept his resignation immediately, the cabinet met to-night and decided to accept the resignation, and officially announce the crisis in the cabinet.

Two Train-Men Killed.

City of Mexico, via Galveston, June 12.—A train on the National railroad was wrecked to-day near Salinas, state of Nuevo Leon. Heavy rains had undermined the roadbed. The engineer and fireman were killed.

A Ministry Resigns.

London, June 12.—A dispatch from Australia says the Queensland ministry has resigned, and McIlwraith is forming a cabinet.

CALIFORNIA AFFAIRS.

Continuation of the Trial of "Big Bertha."

AN ATTEMPT TO EXALT VICE.

Cheerless Future of a Missionary and His Wife—Personal and General Notes from San Francisco—Etc.

San Francisco, June 12.—The principal witness to-day in the trial of Bertha Stanley, known from the Atlantic to the Pacific as the "confidence queen," was Wm. Gruhn, who testified that he met defendant at Rev. Dr. Mersing's house, and fell in love with her. She represented herself to be wealthy, saying she had $1000 in the Anglo-California bank and a fine house and horses in La Salle, and she was looking forward to a wedded future. This was certainly an inducement to him, but he was really in love with her. When they became engaged he gave her a diamond ring worth $250 and she gave him a ring which she told him she purchased from Parsons, the jeweler, for $280, but when she left for Los Angeles she took the ring from him, telling him it was not in keeping with her wealth, and that she would send him a costlier one. They were to be married when she settled her business in the East and returned here.

Gruhn was recalled and testified that Bertha told him the diamonds were worth $1150, which her son Willie pawned, and were a present from a rich uncle in New York.

Mrs. Stanley was then placed on the stand, and was asked several questions, among others, if her true name was not Bertha Herman, all of which she answered evasively, or declined to reply. The prosecution rested.

The false pretense charges brought by Gruhn, who alleges that the pair borrowed $500 from him, and that Willie is not the son, but husband, of defendant, were next disposed of.

Gruhn again took the stand and testified to the circumstances of the meeting of the parties and the tales they told him. The two claimed to be worth $800,000 or $700,000, and were on intimate terms with Jay Gould and the Vanderbilts. When Willie asked him for $500 witness consulted with Bertha, who said Willie had probably been gambling, but asked witness to let him have the money and she would repay him, which she never did. When they became engaged she gave him a $30,000 draft, in order that he might become a big merchant here, and that she might introduce him as such among her New York friends, but as she managed to evade going to the bank with him, he couldn't avail himself of the draft.

Witness was then asked a number of questions relative to his courtship, which provoked much laughter from those present.

RELEASED ON BAIL.

San Francisco, June 12.—"Big Bertha," the confidence operator, was released to-night on bail, her securities being Halliman and Foster, theatrical managers, and W. O. Hubbard.

MURDER WILL OUT.

The Assassins of a Wealthy Rancher Discovered and Arrested.

Sacramento, June 12.—Wm. Dagger was arrested last week on suspicion of being implicated in the murder of John Lowell, a wealthy rancher, whose remains were found buried on his ranch near Folsom, recently. Dagger made a statement which led to the arrest of John Olsen, a Dane, and a man named Myers.

Olsen, who was brought here to-day, confessed that Myers killed Lowell with a gun borrowed from the latter, and then compelled Olsen and Dagger to assist in burying the body. The three then decamped with several fine head of stock, from the sale of which Olsen says he received but $75.

Myers was arrested in the southern part of the state under an assumed name, and is expected here to-morrow or the day after.

MYERS'S STATEMENT.

Los Angeles, June 12.—Henry Myers, alias Schoenfeld, who was arrested at Baldwin's ranch, near Tehachapi, to-day on a charge of grand larceny, but who is believed to be the murderer of John Lowell, said the horses he sold under agreement with Lowell, and that he paid the latter $600 as the result of the sale, retaining $2 a day for his own recompense. He strenuously denied having sold the buggy or harness missing from Lowell's ranch. When asked why he changed his name and hastily traveled south, he said he had stabbed one of three men who attacked him in a barroom, and was afraid of arrest, though he acted in self-defense.

TO EXALT VICE.

The Shameless Scheme to Parade "Big Bertha" on the Stage.

San Francisco, June 12.—Mrs. Bertha Stanley, better known as "Big Bertha," has shown some reluctance in speaking of her new departure as a theatrical star, but finally acknowledged that fourteen years ago she was an actress. "I played in Berlin, where my sister to-day is a prominent actress. I am satisfied that I will acquit myself with credit of the task I am to undertake, as I am thoroughly conversant with the stage. When I played I was likened to Janauschek. My favorite part is Lady Macbeth. Deborah is also a favorite role of mine. I did well in 'Mother and Son.'

"My managers will secure my liberty by furnishing bonds, and I will appear within a week at Woodward's, in a play exactly suited to my style.

"The proposition, as it stands now, is to have a play written for me, taking my experiences in this city as the plot." With this the queen of confidence women subsided.

OUT OF THE WORLD.

The Cheerless Future that a Missionary and His Wife are Facing.

San Francisco, June 11.—Rev. Alfred Snelling and wife, of Chicago, have arrived here, on their way to Ruk Island. The island of Ruk is 3300 miles from Honolulu, in the Lisoroensia group. Honolulu is the nearest important point of civilization. Rev. Snelling is a graduate of the Chicago Theological Seminary. Said Snelling to-day: "We feel that we are saying good-by to our friends for ever. Once on that island, we do not expect to leave until our life's work is done. Ruk has a native population of about 5000, but in the entire group, of which only five are habitable, there are about 10,000 souls. The natives, I am told, are very hostile, and disposed to resent the intrusion of whites, and a white man's life is not safe except on the island of Ruk. We take no weapons of defense with us."

CALIFORNIA.

Personal and General Notes.

San Francisco, June 12.—At present the city is full of strangers. There were nearly 100 arrivals at the Palace yesterday, and all the hotels report plenty of patronage. Nearly all the strangers seek the state board of trade headquarters, having learned that there they may gain a fair idea of the state's products. The headquarters here are certainly well patronized.

Angel Island was yesterday a scene of gaiety, when Miss Mary L. Shafter, the commandant's only daughter, was married to Wm. Holmes McKittrick. Col. and Mrs. Shafter's home was turned into a bower of roses. The couple started East in the afternoon, and will leave on a four months' trip to Europe. The first meeting of the young couple, three years ago at Ballston Spa, near Saratoga, was so romantic that a well-known novelist wove it into a magazine story.

The case of the United States vs. 480 five-tael boxes of smuggled opium, seized here April last, came up in the district court this morning, and as no one appeared to defend the contraband drug, the court entered a decree of default, and ordered it sold.

Young Wang, the accomplice of Lee Chuck and Quan Sick in the murder of Ly Yut, was convicted of murder in the first degree, with life imprisonment. This completes the gang that was mixed up in that affair. Chuck, the principal, is under sentence of death, and Sick and Wall will spend their lives together in prison.

C. W. Bogue, chief engineer of the Union Pacific, has been in Ogden, arranging for commencement of work on a new union depot in that city. The depot facilities in Ogden have always been considered insufficient, but in consequence of some misunderstanding between the Central and Union Pacific, no effort was ever made to remedy them. A very handsome building will now be erected.

Leander Stevenson, of the Ariel Boat Club, has left for Portland, Oregon, to go into training for his race with Seeley on the 20th. It will be a three-mile race, and if they come anywhere near making the time that Peterson and Payne do on the 23d, it is thought here that the winner of the first event will probably challenge the loser of the Payne-Peterson race.

The steamer Mexico arrived to-day from Sound ports. On the next trip up she will return in time to leave on the following Friday. Her usual sailing date from here is every other Friday, but as the Umatilla is a larger carrier, she will be put in the Mexico's place, so that she can connect with the Alaska steamer.

General Manager McCoole, of the California Central and Southern roads, left the city for Portland this evening.

T. K. Stateler, of the Northern Pacific, has gone to Santa Cruz, and will visit the Yosemite next week.

The Northern Pacific people have issued a circular, giving information of interest concerning the July convention of the National Educational Association in this city.

C. C. Crane, who represents the Vanderbilt system in Portland, left this city for the north this evening.

Oregonians were much surprised to see the face of John M. Gearin here. He left for Portland by steamer this morning.

Patti Rosa, the actress who appeared in this city last week, has married her manager, John Dunne. The wedding took place June 8, the affair being kept a profound secret.

Oregonians here are much pleased with the new style of couriers sent by the Oregon board of immigration, they being very attractive alongside of the folders. M. B. Goldstein, from conversation with different excursion managers and railroad officials, thinks next year Oregon will have more of an immigration of intending settlers than California.

Among the passengers that left on the steamer Columbia this morning, were W. H. Holcomb, general manager of the O. R. & N. Co., and wife and daughter.

Charged with Sheep Stealing.

$50,000 for it, and that 4000 head of sheep which were on the ranch at the time, and were to go with the sale, disappeared on a dark night a short time afterwards, and he charges that Benton was instrumental in having them carried off.

Will Make Faster Time.

San Francisco, June 12.—The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe announce that beginning on Sunday, the 24th inst., it will shorten its run between Kansas City and San Francisco by ten hours. It is believed in certain railroad circles here that the announcement is but the forerunner of a new time arrangement by which the Santa Fe will cut off an entire day from the running time between this city and Chicago.

Lobsters for the Pacific Coast.

San Francisco, June 12.—A few days since Congressman Morrow wired J. D. Redding, representative of the United States fish commission on this coast, that the long-expected carload of lobsters for breeding purposes in coast waters, will start westward some time during the present month. The car will come west direct on passenger time. Great pains will be taken in the location of the lobsters on arrival.

Excursionists Coming North.

San Francisco, June 12.—Thirty-seven Raymond excursionists, who left Boston May 3, registered at the Palace last night. They have been at the Del Monte for a week, and are now preparing to go north on the 20th. More will join the party before that time. There are about forty who are going to Alaska, starting on the voyage from Portland. The rest will go east by the Northern Pacific, stopping on the way for a run into the Yellowstone park.

An Unsuccessful Launch.

San Francisco, June 12.—An unsuccessful attempt was made to-day to launch the new schooner Charles H. White. In passing downward a portion of the ways were smashed and she dropped amid great confusion. There were only a few people on board. The tide swung the schooner around and at low water she was listed and went broadside on the beach. Efforts will be made to get her off on flood tide.

Suicide of a Physician.

San Diego, June 12.—Dr. E. C. Thatcher, a prominent physician of this city, committed suicide yesterday at Ramona by piercing his jugular vein with a lancet and bleeding to death. He was commissioned surgeon in the navy by President Johnson in 1865, and served till 1878. He was a native of Pennsylvania. Lately he had been addicted to the use of morphine.

Illness of Mr. Swift.

San Francisco, June 12.—John F. Swift, delegate at large to the republican national convention, is lying sick here with malarial fever. Swift's alternate, N. W. Spaulding, of Oakland, states that he will be unable to attend the convention on account of business. The executive committee of the state central committee have authority to fill the vacancy.

Stonecutters on a Strike.

Los Angeles, June 12.—Union stonecutters to the number of over 300 are on a strike. They demand an increase from $4 50 to $5 per day. The result has been to stop stone work on several large buildings, among them the new city hall and new county courthouse building.

Accidentally Shot.

Los Angeles, June 12.—John Walton, a waiter in a restaurant here, was accidentally shot this afternoon by the proprietor, James Wilson, while the latter was cleaning a revolver. The ball passed through Walton's abdomen. The wound will probably prove fatal.

Miss Field's Services in Demand.

San Francisco, June 12.—At a meeting of the state viticultural commissioners to-day, a committee of three, of which the president is chairman, was appointed to wait on Miss Kate Field, and see if she would accept the office of lecturer for Eastern states on subjects pertaining to the wine industry.

A Crack Pitcher Engaged.

San Francisco, June 12.—Manager Robinson, of Greenhood and Moran's, has secured one Coughlan, of Chicago, as pitcher for his baseball club. Coughlan is expected to appear here the 24th. He will receive $175 per month.

A Leap to Death.

Mountain View, June 12.—Richard Van Staden was killed here this evening, by jumping, it is supposed, from the Monterey express train. Landing on the bridge, he fell through, and his body was horribly mangled.

Wreck of the Julia Sold.

San Francisco, June 12.—What was left of the steamer Julia, which was blown up near Vallejo several months since, was sold to-day by United States Marshal Franks, as trustee, for $615.

Verdict of Acquittal.

Sacramento, June 12.—The trial of N. L. Tolley, on a charge of assault to murder, in shooting a prisoner at Folsom last April, closed to-day and the jury rendered a verdict of acquittal.

Shipping.

San Francisco, June 12.—Arrivals—Steamer Oregon, Astoria; steamer Mexico, Victoria. Departures—Steamer Columbia, Portland; ship Cape St. Vincent, Port Townsend.

New Steamboat Launched.

Tacoma, June 12.—A new steamboat built by John Holland for Capt. Brown, named the Henry Bailey, was launched at the yards in the first ward at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

DR. DARRIN SAVED HER LIFE.

It was with feelings of gratitude to Drs. Darrin and sympathy for the afflicted public that I last winter published a card to the public concerning the cure of my boy and myself. Since then I have been made to feel more than grateful to Dr. Darrin, as I believe that it is through his skill alone that my wife is spared to me and to her children. My wife has been an invalid for years, troubled with nearly all the diseases that women are heir to. She finally was obliged to take to her bed with neuralgia in her side and heart, general debility and liver troubles. When everything was done that seemingly could be done, and all remedies of other doctors failed—once life was seemingly but a flicker—I called upon Dr. Darrin, at 265 Fifth street, Portland, and, thanks to his skill and good judgment, my wife is fast recovering her health. The third week that she was under his treatment she was able to walk to his office, a distance of one and one-half miles. After what has been done for me and my family, I firmly believe that there is no disease that can be reached at all by medical skill that Dr. Darrin cannot cure with his electric magnetic treatment.
I reside at No. 8 Hall street. My place of business is at 261 to 267 Front street, Portland. I can be referred to at either place, and questions answered with pleasure.
J. D. HENRY.

A MOST REMARKABLE CURE.

Mr. Editor: I would like to ask you to publish the following lines in your paper, not only for the well-merited praise of Dr. Darrin, but especially for the suffering humanity and those people who are afflicted with chronic diseases. My son has been suffering for the past five years with catarrh, scrofulous swellings and polypi in his nose. During this long period I consulted the best physicians in Chicago, Dakota, Los Angeles and San Francisco, but instead of effecting any relief, the illness of my son grew worse, and it was a pity to see him. He had no more rest at night, as he could not breathe any more through his nose, and his throat and nose were swollen to an immense size. After a treatment of only two months, through Dr. Darrin he is almost cured, and I am convinced that in a short time he will be perfectly cured. This I wish to submit to all those who can secure relief. I will be glad to give any references at the corner of Twenty-Second and A streets, East Portland.
Yours, LEOPOLD DIETZ.

FACTS FOR HOME-SEEKERS.

Comparison Between Oregon and California as Producing Regions.

What Oregon Can Offer—Facts as to Climate—Insect Pests—Fruits in Comparison—Relative Prices of Lands—Etc.

A gentleman, whose home is in Chicago, was in Portland within a week, having visited California and this state with the intention of finding a location to engage in fruit growing as a permanent business. He had been to Southern California, had examined the orchards and vineyards to be found in all parts of that state, and had paid some attention to fruit-growing as it is carried on in Oregon. Persons who practically understand orcharding had given him an insight into fruit-growing in this section, and he understood the difference in the cost of land, but he was attracted by the golden hue of orange groves in bearing. He seemed disposed to make his home in the region of citrus-growing orchards and will probably cast his lot with that class. Meeting such travelers and seeing their aims, and the ease with which average humanity surrenders to the semi-tropical, turning a cold shoulder to the products and soil of the temperate zone, inclines one familiar with the question to draw parallels that will show the value of life and the certainty of success in different parts of the Pacific slope, comparing the soils, climates and products of different parts, without prejudice or disparagement.

WHAT OREGON CAN OFFER.

The three points of difference and means of attraction lie in the excellence of climates, the fertility and lasting qualities of soils, and the value and variety of products. California is so boomed and trumpeted abroad that there is no need of reiterating the thousand times told story of its excellences. Granting all that is reasonably claimed, and not questioning what its champions assert, we will ask such home-seekers as the person referred to above to listen a moment.

A fair statement of what Oregon can offer and the terms on which the offer is made, for neither in climate, soil or products can California present greater attractions or offer more solid certainty of success than can be obtained here in Oregon.

THE FOUR SEASONS IN OREGON.

As to salubrity of climate, it is only necessary to say that with us spring is as lovely and delightful as any earthly paradise can be. Summer knows no vicissitudes, no sweltering nights, no scorching days. The mercury seldom rises above 80 deg. and nights are delicious and refreshing. The sea breeze fans the harvester, and no such thing as sunstroke has ever occurred north of the 42d deg. of latitude. Autumn with us is all that fruition can give and possession can imply. The autumn months are beyond comparison—the perfection of human life and happiness. We gather in the harvest and make ready for the restful time of winter. While flocks of wild fowl seek their southern homes the people of Oregon get ready to live through another winter. Migration has no hopes for those who live in so equable and temperate a clime.

December may bring rain and storm, but as often sunshine flows over the land until Christmas. Taking last year as a criterion, the winters of Oregon are not to be feared. December saw rain, January came from Arcturus, and for a short while the land was ice-bound here, and north and south of us. February was a pleasant time, with a few rainy but not tempestuous days. The wheat frozen out in January was all resown in February. March was like February and April was like March. There were no storms from January until May, and the three months intervening had each five days only of pleasant and needed rains. No country on earth can show a pleasanter winter and spring than came to Oregon. May was clear and warm and all things have grown with marvelous quickness.

COMPARISON OF CLIMATE.

In January last the mercury dropped to zero along the river at Portland, and for a week or so the weather was decidedly winterish. While this was true, it was also true that the cold wave was severe at Los Angeles and all portions of California felt the same icy touch. Visiting thousands from the East made many and bitter complaints of the winter there. Many of their citrus thus suffered and died from the severity of the cold. On the 11th of May, 1887, a frost swept down the whole coast and injured fruits to a greater extent in California than in Oregon. These two instances are cited to show that the same influences pervade the coast for a thousand miles. While that is true in some degree, our neighbor possesses an exclusive right to droughts that are deadly, and hot winds that extinguish all hope of crops.

ABOUT INSECT PESTS.

Oregon has nothing that approaches the climatic evils, the meteorological vicissitudes, the intensity of heat, the horde of insect life that annoy man and beast, and the scores of insect pests that destroy fruit and threaten universal devastation. Men of science in California spend their lives to find ways and means of alleviating these annoyances and pests. Oregon receives regular installments by rail and steamer, by sea and land, that vainly try to perpetuate themselves on this Northern soil. The numerous evils of the insect kind existing in semi-tropical California are beyond our limits, and it is only necessary to notice by way of comparison and to show that these things have no hold on this climate. Only a very few insects annoy us personally or cause loss to fruit or products. No state in the Union is so free from such annoyances or pests as the state of Oregon. This is absolutely true.

FRUITS IN COMPARISON.

The whole year, taken in comparison between Oregon and California, cannot place this state at disadvantage, so leaving the comparison of climates let us turn to products. The soil of Western Oregon is made of volcanic basalt, the same as is the best fruit land of Europe and the world. In growing grain and grasses any comparison must favor Oregon. Concerning deciduous fruits we have a great advantage, and the quality and flavor of all our products puts Oregon far in the lead. While we do not as certainly grow peaches, those grown here in favorable years excel any that California can put in comparison. All the fruits of our latitude are produced here in abundance and of superior quality, to such an extent that we can claim as much income from growing fruits suited to our latitude as Californians can show to have been realized from any line of fruits grown in that state. A prune orchard in the red hills near Salem last year realized from a single acre of French prunes, 5000 pounds, that sold for $600, so that the net profit realized was over $500. Another prune orchard, that was planted in a sandy loam favorably located on the Columbia, near Vancouver, realized fully $750 per acre, on three acres of Italian prunes the same year. The orchards in this valley are the present year loaded with fruit and men who own large plantations of prunes, pears, cherry and peach, are all expecting full crops. They cannot be easily disappointed. It is safe to claim that orchards eight years old will net for prunes $250 an acre of profit, at moderate prices.

THE PRICE OF FRUIT LANDS.

Orcharding in Oregon must eventually become a leading industry and the most certain of all to secure good and reliable products. There can be found literally millions of acres of excellent soil that is adapted to fruit-growing, and that will eventually be used for that purpose. While land suited to fruit-growing in California commands $100 to $500 an acre, land equally valuable in Oregon can be had for one-tenth the prices quoted above. While the land bears no proportionate value here as yet, where fairly tested at fruit-growing it is as productive and as profitable as are orange groves or vineyards or any fruit grown in that great state.

The criterion of worldly success is health, happiness and prosperity. These we command abundantly here in Oregon, and with success so assured why not give the cheap lands and salubrious climate of Oregon the preference? There is scarcely less variety in Oregon than in California. Rogue river valley combines in itself the best features of the two states. Its production [illegible] each and its climate mingles both. [illegible] ever Oregon excels she leaves California [illegible]

A RED-HOT REBEL [illegible]

Gen. Johnson [illegible] Soldiers are Getting [illegible] Government.

BALTIMORE, Md., June [illegible] Memorial day in Baltimore [illegible] Bradley A. Johnson [illegible] merly of Virginia [illegible] make a red-hot rebel speech [illegible] ex-Confederate soldiers [illegible] him at the cemetery [illegible] Confederate cause and the [illegible] federate soldiers, he said:

"The South is [illegible] dead. These old Confederates [illegible] their descendants [illegible] 100 congressmen [illegible] States senators [illegible] States. [Applause.] [illegible] the United States is [illegible] federate soldiers. It [illegible] case that when [illegible] command respect [illegible] These old Confederates [illegible] Their work for twenty [illegible] ment in railroads and [illegible] of all sorts is making [illegible] land. In 1880 Texas [illegible] men to congress. [illegible] with one or two [illegible] the newspapers [illegible] was not a dissenting [illegible] This is some progress [illegible]

"In the North and South [illegible] our people is that of [illegible] A Maryland man fought [illegible] Hampton roads with [illegible] a change in naval warfare [illegible] and there is not a line [illegible] state about him. A Maryland [illegible] ed the harbor of Mobile [illegible] ever did, but he got no [illegible] of the exploits of Harry [illegible] who sleeps over there [illegible] —you know what they [illegible] erate soldier [illegible] heart, a casket of [illegible] aspirations all through [illegible] did the heart of Bruce [illegible] show his devotion to the [illegible] fought. If the time should [illegible] it were necessary [illegible] land who would [illegible] Douglas did for Bruce."

"I have tried hard for [illegible] to live as a good citizen [illegible] broken the parole I gave [illegible] in 1865. I tried to do my [illegible] been respected [illegible] that slush and sentimentality [illegible] gushing over [illegible] that. I recall the [illegible] by some [illegible] before [illegible] Jefferson Davis, a man [illegible] ates, has been [illegible] and branded by [illegible] kept from his [illegible] ferson Davis. Gen. Johnson roused [illegible] siasm again when he [illegible]

"The men who were [illegible] were scattered all over [illegible] public stood by [illegible] braved the storm [illegible] to-day you can reckon on [illegible] two hands the deserters [illegible] ate cause after [illegible] years. [Applause.] [illegible] from Robert E. Lee [illegible] private in the ranks [illegible] twenty who have turned [illegible] their old comrades [illegible] faith in their cause. [illegible]

"This feeling of devotion [illegible] what they did, grows [illegible] planation is that the cause [illegible] fought is recognized [illegible] chivalry, patriotism [illegible] liberty. I expect to live [illegible] when the cause of the [illegible] looked upon as that [illegible] liberty the world over [illegible] be fully written and [illegible] will learn our fight [illegible] ment—the same [illegible] fighting for the Irish [illegible] ing a new chapter in the [illegible] world. Is any [illegible] spread than respect for [illegible] At any time in the [illegible] years was there a [illegible] love for any man than for [illegible] son? How does the [illegible] exploits of the dashing [illegible] story of such [illegible] manliness in fight [illegible] all this world, and [illegible] stronger and more [illegible] on."

General Johnson was [illegible] again when he declared [illegible] soldiers were getting [illegible] ment.

HEPPNER, MORROW COUNTY.

The O. R. & N. Company's Branch Line Will Do for this Town.

HEPPNER, Or., June 11.

[illegible] considerable has been said and [illegible] concerning the town of Heppner, [illegible] remains to be said, and as the Hepp[illegible] of the O. R. & N. railroad is rap[illegible] completion, it seems proper [illegible] be heard from.

[illegible] man can look at the geo[illegible] location of the place without set[illegible] conclusion that there is a bright [illegible] for it as a business point. [illegible] into the territory now compris[illegible] county and a portion of Grant, [illegible] to The Dalles and Umatilla [illegible] the railroad was built up [illegible] and the town of Alkali [illegible] vast territory began to lend [illegible] town, it being about fifty [illegible] than The Dalles, and fully as [illegible] the road being much easier. [illegible] the birth of what is now the [illegible] was very noticeable on [illegible] places. There was [illegible] Rock, and all the [illegible] John Day country at once [illegible] and poured their patronage [illegible] town of Alkali. The result [illegible] and has enjoyed a good [illegible] of Alkali was to The [illegible] Heppner is sure to be to [illegible] and Echo, and will [illegible] still more as soon as [illegible] of construction is [illegible] will be by the middle of [illegible] what will Heppner [illegible] The people of Heppner do not expect to be able to hold the terminus of a railroad when the management of that road conclude to build on. But let us see what the prospect is for this road to be continued on through Heppner. First, Heppner is located just at the foot of the Blue mountains. There is no room for a town nearer the mountains, nor is there any need of one. The Long creek country is located over a spur of the Blue mountains, and while it is a nice valley, yet it will require years of settlement and improvement before the country will justify building a railroad through a mountain country. The rule applies to the country for sixty or eighty miles south and east of Heppner. The cost of building a railroad from the Columbia river to Heppner is comparatively light, as the grade is natural, most of the work being done with plows and scrapers, but the easy grade ends here, and to go beyond will cost double or treble the amount per mile. Hence, while other railroads may go through the country, there is good reason to believe that Heppner will remain the terminus of this branch of road for twenty years.

SUICIDE BY MORPHINE.

A Spokane Falls Lawyer, Dejected Over Gambling Losses, Takes His Life.

J. F. Parks, a lawyer of Spokane Falls, who has been staying at the St. Charles hotel since the 3d inst., was found in a dying condition in his room about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. A partially filled box of morphine pills on the stand by his bedside showed what he had taken, and Dr. Panton was at once summoned, but all efforts to restore animation failed, and in a short time he expired. It is supposed that the morphine was taken with suicidal intent.

Parks had been living rather fast since he came here, and, it is supposed, lost all his money at gambling. He came down stairs about 8 o'clock yesterday morning and shortly returned to his room. Several persons called to see him during the forenoon, but his room was locked and they could not find him. At length some one looked through the transom and saw him lying on the bed. The door was then forced and he was found in a dying condition, as above stated. He was about 30 years of age and his relatives reside somewhere East.

Mr. J. C. Shofner, who knows his family, took charge of his effects and telegraphed to his friends. He left no message which gave any clue to his reasons for the rash act, but it is supposed that in a fit of dejection at having squandered his funds, he determined to end his life. The remains were taken charge of by Coroner DeLin. It is said that Parks attempted suicide Sunday night by leaving his gas turned on, but for some reason the attempt failed. There was no necessity for his being worried about money, because during the afternoon yesterday a telegraphic advice came, instructing him to draw on his brother for $1000.

ADVERTISING MATTERS.

The Immigration Board Order 100,000 Large Pamphlets Printed—Finances.

The first question for consideration at the special meeting of the immigration board yesterday was the matter of the board's finances. Secretary Struble submitted a detailed exhibit, from which the following is culled:

RECEIPTS.

Total amount pledged per month	$ 2,432 50
Making for the year	29,190 00
Total amount paid in lump sums	180 00
Total for the year	$29,370 00

EXPENDITURES.

Paid out as per warrants	$ 3,881 94
Estimated expenditures for the year, including actual contracts and amounts necessary to complete work determined on	20,703 75
Making a total of	$24,585 69
Balance not disposed of	$ 4,784 31

This estimate includes probable cost of 100,000 large pamphlets and an appropriation of $6000 for Eastern newspaper advertising.

The board were of the opinion, after consideration of these figures, that they could not safely authorize any expenditures outside the matters already determined on, the unexpended balance being needed as a provision against contingencies.

The matter of the 100,000 large pamphlets being under consideration, bids were opened from the following firms for printing same. The estimates are for composition, electrotyping and press work only, 96 pages, long primer, 5¼x8½:

A. Anderson & Co.	$2174
F. W. Baltes & Co.	2600
Lewis & Dryden Printing Co.	2305
R. H. Schwab & Bros.	2640
Geo. H. Himes	2750
Ellis & Sons	1273

The same firms estimated, respectively, $1 50, $1 75, $1 70, $1 75, $1 85 and 65 cents per page additional for each page of brevier used.

On motion of Mr. Wood the printing committee were authorized to award the contract to Ellis & Sons. The same committee were also instructed to prepare copy for 1,000,000 leaflets and have same put in type for inspection of the board.

A special committee, composed of Messrs. Hughes, Oliphant and Baird, were empowered to purchase, through Blake, McFall & Co., 750 reams of book paper for use in printing large pamphlets.

"The New Empire—Oregon, Washington and Idaho," is the title selected for the new pamphlet. L. Samuel has kindly offered to engrave a suitable title page for the publication.

Mr. Baird was authorized to attend to the details of the poster printing for the board. Adjourned.

CITY DEMOCRATS.

The Central Committee Adjourn Till Thursday Evening Without Calling a Convention.

A meeting of the democratic city committee was held in the Arlington mining office, No. 7 Morrison street, at 3 P. M. yesterday. The committee adjourned until Thursday evening at 8 o'clock without taking any action relative to calling a city convention.

On this matter a prominent democrat said to an OREGONIAN reporter last evening "The Waterloo at the general election precludes any hope of success of a democratic city ticket. We are not even confident of electing a councilman in the First ward, our old stronghold, the election of Castendieck last year having demonstrated that republican success is more than possible in fact quite probable in that part of the city. This year, owing to the recent overwhelming defeat, we are in a worse condition than ever in the first ward and the city committee is inclined to heed the advice of many prominent democrats not to nominate a ticket."

The situation is understood to be this. If the republicans nominate a vulnerable or objectionable man for any position, the democrats will pick out some good man, not too strong a partisan, and try to elect him, calling on citizens of both parties for support.

ANSWER TO AN UNJUST ATTACK.

In reply to a rather harsh criticism of him, contained in a letter from W. E. Blackmer, of the Ritzville Times, published a few days since, Mr. Philip Ritz furnishes the following:

A few words about the artesian well to be located at Ritzville. The original location was on a hill entirely out of town, on a very unsuitable spot, in the interest of parties owning the paper, and on land the title to which is in contest before the landoffice.

After working for some time and losing their drills, the contractors asked to have the location changed. A large number of the best citizens signed a petition asking the legislature to relocate the site, which will probably soon be done.

This man Blackmer, who happened to come along and make some kind of arrangement with the parties owning the little paper, and who were very willing to dispose of it, seems to have taken a great dislike to me, because I did not patronize the paper more. The fact is, I was just getting up a good, large advertisement for him, (which I did not think would do me any good) when his first squib against me came out. I very much regret being compelled to go into this newspaper controversy with an irresponsible character. I have never spoken with Blackmer but once or twice, and would scarcely know him if I should meet him on the street. PHILIP RITZ.

AUTOMATIC ENGINES.

TACOMA, W. T., Feb. 25, 1888.

Messrs. Russell & Co., Portland, Oregon—Gentlemen: We have been running the automatic engine bought of you for a week or more and so far we are much pleased with it. Our engineer says it is the best engine he ever run, and he has had extensive experience in building and running of engines. What he notices especially is its uniformity of action under varying load. He tested it with his speed indicator and found there was no change in the number of revolutions when the dynamo was plugged in or cut out.

Yours truly, TACOMA LIGHT & WATER CO., By J. H. HOUGHTON, Secretary.

SAINT MARY'S ACADEMY.

Interesting Commencement Exercises Held Yesterday.

A Chapter on the Exquisite Floral Decorations—Literary and Musical Feast—The Fair Graduates.

Yesterday afternoon the annual commencement exercises of St. Mary's Academy was held in the main room of the Orphanage, which is located on the block west of the convent building. The exercises commenced promptly at 2:30 o'clock, and lasted nearly three hours. They were very interesting throughout and witnessed by a large audience, composed principally of parents, relatives and friends of the pupils, and patrons of the institution. By far the larger proportion of the assemblage were ladies and children. Every available seat in the capacious hall was occupied, and even the standing space filled.

In honor of the important occasion the hall was beautifully decorated, especially the eastern end that was occupied by the extensive rostrum on which the graduating exercises were held. Exquisite taste was displayed by the Sisters in the interior decorations; perfect harmony was preserved in the distribution of flowers, evergreens, and deciduous foliage. The essential elements of form, figure, light shades and the blending and contrast of hues were observed even to the minutest detail. Across the room depending from the ceiling, some distance in front of the rostrum, were a series of gauze-like curtains, several feet wide. Attached to these folds were trailing festoons and wreaths of lovely artificial roses and other flowers. The effect of this feature of the decoration was exquisite. Suspended from the ceiling and walls, over and around the stage, were a profusion of baskets containing choice flowering and trailing plants, arranged in graceful semi-circles and arches. Contrasting with these many bright colors, were clusters of dark evergreen branches—fir and cedar. To add to the perfect harmony and beauty of the picture, the stage was occupied by a hundred or more young ladies and little misses, clad in the regulation commencement-exercises colors—white dresses, sashes, and wearing bouquets, ranged in rows of seats amphitheater style; the air was burdened with mingled fragrance; the lute-like notes of caged songsters came half-muffled through the half-opened windows, and the subdued light lent a sort of soft, mystic, religious air to the scene, hightened by the many sacred pictures, emblems and symbols that adorned the walls of the building. Sisters, with their somber garbs of humility, penitence and self-sacrifice, flitting here and there with noiseless tread, silently completing every slight detail of preparation, suggestive of scenes of the convent and sacred cloister, in perfect harmony with the character of the occasion.

Promptly at 2:30 o'clock the Catholic clergy, headed by Archbishop W. H. Gross and Rev. J. F. Fierens, entered from one of the rear entrances and walked across the stage and down into the audience, where seats had been reserved for them. At the same moment the first notes of the opening overture, "La Pie Voleuse" (Rossini), struck up. Three pianos were used and the performers were: Misses E. McGinn, M. Kelly, K. Wall, M. Murphy, C. Towne and K. McGinn.

Following this came the chorus from "Tannhauser," "Joyfully We Greet You," rendered beautifully by a number of the pupils.

Miss Kate McGinn, the salutatorian, then read an excellently prepared paper in a clear, distinct voice, with good elocutionary effect. Her effort won warm plaudits.

Miss Katie Wall's essay, "Influence of Woman as a Teacher," possessed much literary merit and was well delivered.

"The Legend of Innisfallen," a recitation by the elocutionary class, was one of the most creditable features of the exercises and was heartily applauded.

"Life, a Structure," was the subject of Miss Sara Marks' essay. The young lady handled the theme in a manner deserving very complimentary mention. She read the essay in a very distinct, deliberate style.

Miss Margaret Murphy's essay, "Pearls from the Tide of History," was one of the literary gems of the exercises. It was very warmly and deservedly applauded.

"The Flower Song," by the pupils of the primary vocal class (composed of some twenty or more diminutive Misses), was charmingly sung and in dramatic parlance "brought down the house."

Miss E. McGinn then favored the audience with a piano solo, "Fantasie de Concert" (gloria), rendered with much dash and brilliancy.

"An Unfading Crown," an impersonation, came next on the programme. The following young ladies participated: Misses C. Towne, S. Mark, K. Wall, M. Murphy, K. McGinn, J. Wintler, M. O'Neill, F. Haas, L. O'Connor, P. Norton, A. Zan, M. Blanchet, E. Johnston, N. Vickers, K. Dillon, M. Kelly, J. Gately, E. Woods, J. Donovan, M. Koehler, M. L. Springmeyer, B. Pater, H. Farris, C. Collins, J. Mahony, C. Kennedy, and K. Cole.

"Grand Concert March," a piano solo, was next rendered by four young ladies—Misses E. McGinn, M. Kelly, J. Koehler and M. Blanchet.

This was followed by "L'Esclave Maresque," vocal solo (Bordese)—Miss J. Kearney; piano, Miss E. McGinn.

Archbishop Gross, assisted by Rev. J. F. Fierens, then conferred on graduates—Misses Sarah Mark, Margaret Murphy, Carrie M. Towne, Katie Wall and Kate McGinn—the graduating honors, diplomas and gold medals.

After this came the presentation of the alumnæ gold medals. The gold medal for excellence in music was awarded to Miss E. McGinn, class of '87. The gold medal for excellence in English composition was awarded Miss Margaret Murphy, of Vancouver.

Appropriate music followed the conferment of the honors—"Coronation March" on pianos, the performers being Misses B. Hodgkins, N. Vickers, E. Johnston, M. Blanchet, M. Kelly, Bl. Pater, L. Baker and K. Dillon.

Miss Carrie M. Towne then delivered the valedictory. It was a very excellent effort, the essay being couched in beautiful, fitting language, and delivered with deep earnestness and much feeling, moving to tears many of her school associates, from whom she was so soon to part.

"Sadly We Breathe Our Farewell, a solo and chorus, was the finale, and sung with a touch of sweet sadness that strongly appealed to the emotions and moved the sympathies of all. Those participating in this farewell musical exercise were Misses E. Johnston, M. Blanchet, C. Collins, M. O'Dea, E. Smith, C. Drube, E. Farris, N. Vickers, M. Frainey, S. Becker, G. Hoey, E. Nelson and M. McCullough.

Archbishop Gross was then introduced, and made a brief but very excellent address to the young lady graduates, particularly, and to the public generally, and to the large audience incidentally. His remarks were both enjoyable and instructive.

Benediction followed, the audience was dismissed and dispersed, and the interesting and long to be remembered graduating exercises of St. Mary's Academy for 1888 were ended.

THE STAGE.

NEW PARK THEATER.—Another large house enjoyed the performance of Reilly & Wood's great specialty company last evening, and every act went with snap and vim. The "Colonel and the Major" evoked shouts of laughter and Herr Pitrot's imitations of well known public characters were received with tremendous applause. His power of facial expression, changing from one phase to an entirely opposite in the twinkling of an eye, is clever in the extreme. Pat Reilly, the prince of Irish comedians; Howard, Russell, Seeley and Tolbert, in their very entertaining musical sketch, and the Nelson family in their artistic groupings and athletic performances, all elicited unstinted applause. It is, taken all together, the best and most complete combination of specialty talent ever seen on the coast.

THE INDUSTRIAL FAIR BUILDING.

Work is progressing rapidly on the foundation for the Industrial Fair building. Of the twenty-four rows of brick piers of twelve each nearly half are completed. The greater number of them are two or two and a half feet square, but those through the center, on which the zoological garden will rest, are 3x6 feet. Some of the framework foundation at the east end is up and piles of timbers are strewn about, while near the end of the bridge is a steam engine for hoisting them into position.

The corner stone will be laid at the northeast corner of the building, and a platform is being prepared for the accommodation of those who will take part in the ceremony. The Fourteenth street bridge and the sidewalk on B street will afford a good view of the ceremonies, and will accommodate a large number of spectators.

The carefully tilled Chinese garden, which has long occupied the bottom of the ravine, is growing smaller before the march of building improvement, and will soon be a thing of the past, and instead of vegetables, the rich soil will bear ornamental trees shrubs and flowering plants, and instead of the regular beds and narrow alleys there will be beautifully laid out grounds and winding paths, where the elite of the city will saunter and enjoy the beauties of the scene.

BIDDING A PASTOR GOOD-BYE

Reception and a Presentation to Father Fierens by His Parishioners.

Last evening a large number of Catholic people gathered in Masonic hall to bid bon voyage to Very Rev. Father J. F. Fierens, vicar general, who will leave soon, probably Thursday or Friday of this week, for an extended visit to Belgium. Archbishop W. H. Gross was among the number present.

The appended programme was rendered and was highly appreciated by the audience:

At the conclusion of the musical exercises Mr. E. C. Masten arose and addressed the audience briefly. Following is the text of his remarks:

We will go back some thirty years to watch the departure of a young man in the vigor of youth, taking leave of home and kindred, turning his steps from ease and comfort, shutting his heart against the offers of an advanced civilization, and after crossing the ocean, entering with sturdy determination what was then an almost unbroken forest, known as Oregon. He has left a home of comfort to struggle for the necessaries of life; he has left loving kindred and refined companions, to labor among strangers and savages; he has left the opportunities for intellectual advancement to penetrate the stillness of the primeval forest.

Here shut off in what would seem to us a discouraging situation, a high purpose and a holy faith for its perfect outworking, have set the hero-making influences at work, without any desire, however, for the creation of a hero. Unconscious self-denial has prepared the way for those of us who followed. We arrive from different parts of the world to make a new society about the newly planted cross. About it our churches he builds, our confraternities he organizes, influences for our refinement he spreads, our sick he cares for, our orphans he finds. Years have passed, and our numbers have increased from a few stray wanderers to a multitude.

Here we are assembled this evening to bid bon voyage to our once youthful priest, whom years and good deeds have brought to be the venerable and revered prelate, pioneers and the children of pioneers, whom his hand has baptized, whom his voice has warned from paths of sin, and solicited to the peace of right doing; to whom his ear has been bent to catch the tale of human suffering, to which his heart has lent its humane sympathy.

Mr. Masten, in behalf of the Catholic people then presented Father Fierens a gold chain and a traveling toilet case.

Father Fierens in a few words returned thanks for the kind reception and present.

Archbishop Gross said a few words relative to Father Fierens's trip, after which the audience dispersed.

During the evening Rev. Father Fierens was the recipient of many hearty wishes for a pleasant journey and a safe return.

WHY HE IS CALLED "TURK" BURKE.

An Episode in the Boyhood of a Famous Baseball Player.

Wm. Burke, the new pitcher of the Portland baseball club, is known all over the country as "Turk" Burke, and many have inquired regarding the why and wherefore of this foreign title. Personal appearance has nothing to do with it, for Burke looks more like a jolly, good Irish lad than a lazy, squatting harem owner. Eleven years ago, when Burke was a boy of 14, he and a lot of other lads of the same age, attended a church fair at Atchison, Kansas. Each youngster was provided with twenty-five cents admission fee, but by a method peculiar to boys every last one landed inside, and not a quarter was missing. Later on the boys were asked if they would not like to do some work to earn their suppers, and assenting, each was furnished a big bucket and told to haul water. After about twenty-five buckets had been packed, a kindly old gentleman wearing a beaming smile, gave each of the boys a piece of cake. This was their suppers, the reward of their labors, and they felt pretty cheap.

They resolved to get even on the fair and while planning how to do it one of the boys caught sight of a huge turkey in the center of a lot of other toothsome things on a table in the dining room. This they determined to obtain, but how? "We'll sneak trough de room and ef Burke don't git de turkey I'll eat my hat," said an enthusiastic conspirator. The sneak was made and the turkey was captured, and a genuine supper was had. Then they began calling Burke "Turkey," and afterwards they called him "Turk" Burke for short.

PROPOSED EXTENSION OF MORRISON ST.

Official Survey Being Made—The Feeling for and Against It.

Several inquiries have been made in regard to the status of the proposed extension of Morrison street. The council at its last meeting directed the city surveyor to survey and make a plat of the proposed extension and that official was employed on the work yesterday. There are many who own property on Morrison street opposed to the scheme, considering it as expensive and unnecessary, to say nothing of its cutting through the site of the Industrial fair building. These feel certain that the council will not favor the extension.

Others who own property on the street say that they need an outlet and that the improvement would greatly enhance the value of all property on the street. Mr. M. F. Mulkey, who is much interested in securing the proposed extension, thinks it will be carried out. He calls attention to the fact that there is not a street across the ravine from Washington to Jefferson, and says these things should not be thusly. When the survey is laid before the council the matter will probably be decided.

ASPHALTUM ROCK FOR STREETS.

An Effort Will Likely be Made to Introduce It Here.

A sample of a sort of asphaltum rock, which is used to some extent in paving the streets in San Francisco, is on exhibition at the auditor's office. It was brought up by persons who intend to try and introduce it into use here. There is a prospect of the block in front of the Portland Savings bank and the council building being paved with it as a sample. The rock looks something like coke, but contains about 12 per cent. of oil and when heated becomes quite soft. When spread on a properly prepared street, while hot, and rolled it sticks together, forming a smooth, tough surface, said to be durable.

It is more expensive than the methods of paving now in use here, but it is claimed that this is compensated for by the absence of dust, mud and noise, vehicles passing over it making no sound. If this stuff, which is mined in large quantities in Southern California, combines all the excellencies claimed for it, the paving of business blocks with it would be a blessing to the public.

YOU MUST PAY ROAD TAX.

Every Male Inhabitant of the State Included in the Law.

Much Trouble Experienced by Road Supervisors in Making Their Collections—How They Can Enforce Payment.

The supervisors of the various road districts in Multnomah county complain that they experience a great deal of trouble in collecting that tax, required by the laws of Oregon to be paid by every male inhabitant of the state between the ages of 21 and 50 years, except persons who are a public charge or are too infirm to perform labor. The only exception made is in the case of active or exempt firemen, who have nevertheless to pay the property tax assessed for the benefit of the public highways.

The trouble which the supervisors meet in collecting their taxes is not so much from property owners, but from the large body of laborers, mechanics and professional men, who evade the just payment either by promises to pay at some future time, or by neglecting entirely the notices served upon them, and trusting to the negligence of the supervisor to escape prosecution. Some, too, think, or pretend to think, that because they do not own property they are not included in the law, or else that the law is inoperative and will not be enforced.

In truth, this has been too often the case in the past. Supervisors have collected what they could without making trouble and have let the rest go. This has made many say: "Well, I never have paid any road tax, and I shall not begin now." The language and example of these has influenced others who have paid without question in the past and they say: "Jones never pays any road tax, why should I? Collect it, if you can!"

That is just what the supervisors, who have been appointed by the county court for this year propose to do. The number of those who actually refuse to pay the $3 is so great this year that, in the interest of good roads through the county, which every citizen should earnestly desire, active steps must be taken to enforce payment. The supervisors have held a meeting and have resolved that the road tax this year shall be collected from every man not exempt by law. The resolve is a good one, and if faithfully carried out, the sums raised will enable the roads of this county to be placed in better condition than they have been in the past.

For the information of those who think they are not required to pay this tax, THE OREGONIAN publishes the following extracts from the road laws of the state:

The supervisor shall assess two days' work to be performed by every male between 21 and 50 years of age, except persons who are a public charge or are too infirm to perform labor.

Whenever the supervisor shall have from any cause neglected or omitted to place on his list and assess any person within the time required by law, he shall at any time afterward place the name of any such person on the list and assess the number of days' work to be performed by him, which assessment shall in all respects be valid, as if made in due time.

Any person may, in lieu of each day's work to be performed, pay into the hands of the supervisor the sum of one dollar and fifty cents to be expended for labor or material on the public roads.

The supervisor must notify every person within his road district, subject to road labor as aforesaid, to perform the work assessed on the public roads within his district and if any person subject to road labor as aforesaid shall, after three days' notice either personally or by writing left at his usual place of abode by the supervisor or by any other person by his direction, neglect or refuse to attend by himself or suitable substitute at the time and place designated by the supervisor, or having attended shall refuse to obey the directions of the supervisor, or shall pass his time in idleness or inattention to the labors or duties assigned him, every such delinquent shall thereby become liable to the supervisor for the amount of his road tax in money, and such supervisor shall proceed at once to collect the same by levy and sale of the property, real and personal, of such delinquent, or sufficient thereof for that purpose, and to pay the penalty of such delinquency and the costs and expenses of the levy and sale.

The supervisor must collect of the delinquent in addition to the amount of the road tax, 20 per cent um thereon; but if any such delinquent shall pay the amount of the road tax to the supervisor before a levy upon his property, such 20 per cent um shall not be added thereto.

When a supervisor cannot find sufficient property of a delinquent out of which to make the amount of his road tax, or any part thereof, he must collect the same, or any part thereof remaining uncollected, by an action in his own name against the delinquent, in any court having jurisdiction thereof; and if judgment be given in such action against the defendant, it shall be enforced in the same manner as a judgment for a fine in a criminal action.

It will be seen therefore that it is the duty of every supervisor to enforce the collection of this tax. But it should be the duty of every good citizen to pay his tax uncomplainingly. Good roads are a necessity, and besides they attract settlers and thus increase the general prosperity of the community.

FOURTH OF JULY COMMITTEES.

Meeting To-night to Begin Preparations for the Celebration.

To-night the Fourth of July committee will hold an important meeting in the council chamber. It will be known definitely how much money has been collected and each committee will render an estimate of how much money it will require to carry out its part of the programme. In fact, this evening the committee will begin work in earnest on the details of the celebration.

Mr. F. E. Beach, chairman of the committee, yesterday finished the selection of the different sub-committees. In order that all connected with the arrangement of the celebration may know to which sub-committees they have been assigned, the names of all the committees are printed, including those appointed yesterday.

The Oregonian.

PORTLAND, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 13.

OREGON UNDERSTOOD IT.

There is amusement, if not instruction, in the comments of the Eastern democratic press on the Oregon election.

The Chicago Herald makes an admission when it says: "To minimize the defeat in Oregon by saying the convention at St. Louis is well, since none who can see the watchers at any recent election in that state." Yet the fact, a conveniently overlooked that the majority in Oregon is without a parallel. It reaches 7000, while Blaine's in 1884 was only 2300.

It continues the Herald: "It were true that the overwhelming democrats had stampeded to the republican ticket, because they feared the democrats would take the tax off clothing, that would be a small mishap; there is amazing ignorance, or amazing dishonesty. In Oregon it is known that the democratic Mills bill not only does not propose to take the tax off clothing, but expressly proposes to continue the tax on clothing, and at the same time to give the manufacturer his wool free.

The ... New York Evening Post is equally muddled and fuddled. It says: "The two largest interests in Oregon are wool and lumber. Both of these have been in a ... condition respecting the tariff, ... been little or nothing done to ... as to their interests as consumers of dutiable goods. In this respect Oregon may be regarded as perhaps the most enlightened state in the Union."

Is Oregon so benighted? Oregon is intelligent enough to know that the Mills bill, while removing the duty from wool and lumber, would continue it upon manufactured goods. Her voters know that Mills himself ... and assured the ... that his bill would give ... and yet would continue protection to woolens, so that they would be able to make more money than ever. The voters of Oregon also thought of protected sugar, as well as protected clothing, provided for in the Mills bill, and cast their ballots with full knowledge of their interests as consumers of dutiable goods.

The great need of the democratic party is newspapers intelligent enough and honest enough to set forth things as they are. This is indeed a "long-felt want." If the sectional and unfair character of the Mills bill had been promptly exposed by its democratic press to democratic voters, a protest would have been made by them that would have caused the bill to be dropped at once, and the party might not have been exposed to the danger of the crushing defeat that now hangs over it. But servility to the administration has prompted such a course as that pursued by the party in Oregon, viz: "We most earnestly and unqualifiedly endorse the policy of tariff revision and reduction of the surplus revenue as set forth in the president's last annual message to congress;" and on this Oregon has spoken with a voice that is but a prologue to the swelling act of the imperial theme.

GRESHAM.

The charge that Judge Gresham was a "know-nothing" as far back as 1854 is absurd. There was no serious know-nothing movement, pure and simple, then at the West. In the celebrated contest for the speakership of the Thirty-fourth congress in 1856 the only Indiana man who voted against N. P. Banks was George G. Dunn. The Indiana republicans, like Julian, Colfax and Cumback, were men whose only issue was the anti-slavery cause. They had neither time nor inclination to waste their strength upon any such stupid side issue as know-nothingism. Gresham was then but 21 years of age and was an anti-slavery republican and nothing else from the day of the birth of the party. There was some coquetting between the know-nothings and the free-soilers, or republicans, in Massachusetts when Gardner was elected governor in 1855, but it was a fusion to test and fracture the pro-slavery party, and when this was accomplished the know-nothing party went out of sight and has never since been heard of in New England.

As a national party in 1856 and 1860 the know-nothing or american party was recruited from the pro-slavery whigs and democrats. The republican party, which Gresham joined as soon as he could vote, had no part or lot with know-nothingism, and the whole story, like that which describes him as an agnostic and an infidel, is a stupid campaign lie. In matters religious Gen. Gresham is liberal, attending Rev. Dr. Swing's liberal Unitarian church in Chicago, but he is not more liberal than Abraham Lincoln, who belonged to no church, and was an admirer of Theodore Parker, the great Boston liberal preacher from 1845 to 1859. Gresham is a practical Christian of pure life and unspotted character, and that is sufficient for a great state that knows no church and counted Jefferson, Franklin and Thomas Paine among its patriots.

IT WILL BE OMITTED.

It is not probable that Mr. Cleveland's views as to a second term, which were so prominent a feature of his last letter of acceptance, will be reiterated in the second letter of acceptance, soon to be written. From the first letter we quote:

When we consider the patronage of this great office (the presidency), the allurements of power, the temptation to retain public places once gained, and more than all, the availability a party finds in the incumbent whom a horde of office-holders, with a zeal born of benefits received, and fostered by the hopes of favors yet to come, stand ready to aid with money and trained political service, we recognize in the eligibility of the president for re-election a most serious danger to that calm, deliberate and intelligent political action which must characterize a government by the people.

All this has come to pass. The patronage of the great office has been doing its work; a horde of office-holders and office-seekers have found availability in the incumbent, and with money and with trained political service have helped him to re-nomination, and will do all they can to help him to re-election. Eastern journals at hand contain long lists of office-holders under the administration who were present at St. Louis to assist in making the re-nomination unanimous, some of them as delegates, others as advisers and claqueurs; and among them was Noltner, postal inspector and leader of the Oregon delegation.

The circumstances, therefore, are such as will require the omission from the forthcoming letter of acceptance of the passage above quoted from the last one.

There were two warmly-contested county seat fights in Oregon this year—one in Wallowa and one in Gilliam county. Joseph, the established county seat in Wallowa, failed to retain that honor, the town of Enterprise, true to its name, securing the victory at the polls by a vote of 482 to 370, the little town of Lostine receiving 67 votes, mainly from her own citizens. In Gilliam county the contest was closer, but the desire to remove the county seat from Arlington was divided between two factions, respectively the supporters of the claims of Condon and of Fossil. This division of the opposition resulted, as was easily to have been foreseen, in the success of Arlington. The vote was, Arlington 482, Condon 307, Fossil 328. Although at the extreme northern end of the county, Arlington is still the best location for the county seat, owing to its railroad facilities and its easy access ... ... other counties by mail or ... Condon ...

... is the most centrally located of the large towns, and when a railroad shall bisect that county it ... would undoubtedly result in establishing her geographical claims.

TWO PICTURES OF CLEVELAND.

The Springfield Republican thinks the decline and fall of Hill in New York, the retreat of the McLean democracy in Ohio and the renomination of Cleveland are proofs of Cleveland's strength with the masses of his party; that the president stands for a "new departure and a great captain." He stands for nothing of the sort. The party had to renominate Cleveland or repudiate the record of the first democratic administration that has befallen the country since James Buchanan. The republican party can afford to drop a president because it has an inspiring record to appeal to, but the democratic party dared not repudiate Cleveland's record because they have made no record of capacity to govern the country since Buchanan sidled down the steps of the White house in March, 1861, and sneaked home to sit in the backcloth of statesmanship and the cold ashes of his former fame. The democracy could not repudiate Cleveland without treating him as a bank officer does a spurious bank bill, by stamping him as uncurrent or counterfeit. The Scotch woman said of her husband whose head was shot off in battle, "It wasn't much of a head to be sure, but as it was all the head he had it was a sore loss to him." Cleveland is not much of a head, but he is all the head his party have had in the White house since Buchanan, so the democracy could not refuse to renominate him without shooting their own record. As for his "leadership" it is a new term for treachery, bad faith, falsehood, and the lash of the spoilsman applied by the hands of the president himself to pack a convention to suit "leadership." As well call a "bull-puncher" prodding his string of cattle with his goad by the name of a great general or statesman. The national democracy nominating Cleveland by acclamation recalls the story of the Dutchman who, when asked whether his wife on her deathbed appeared resigned, answered "Resigned; Mein Gott! she had to be!" The democracy were all "resigned" to Cleveland's renomination; they had to be. In contrast with the Springfield Republican's picture of Cleveland as the great captain of a new departure here is his portrait as drawn by Senator Ingalls in the current number of the North American Review:

Having cheated the "reformers" and bullied the, the renegades in the North he truckles to his masters in the South, acknowledges his hypocrisy, admits his treachery, and not disconcerted by exposure demands another term in the face of his plain avowal that he would not ask for a renomination. Devoid alike of imagination and of conscience he appeals neither to the sentiment nor to the moral sense of the people. It is impossible to excite popular enthusiasm for an executive who contemptibly reaches the climax of his great powers in refusing to approve an appropriation for a public building in a country town and vetoing with ghoulish glee a two-dollar pension bill for a mutilated and disabled Union veteran.

From this inert and vacant mass the transcendentalists and Pharisees of our politics have made unto themselves a graven image to which they bow down and worship with ignominious idolatry and self-abasement.

Of the consequences to the country of the rule of a man nominated, "not as a leader, but as a fetich—a thing endowed by superstition and ignorance with fictitious attributes," Senator Ingalls says that "incompetent and untrained men have been placed, for political reasons only, in the mail service, in the Indian bureau and the land department, till the public business has fallen into imbecile and inextricable disorder. The expenses of the government have been greatly increased. The appearance of 'economy' has been secured by inadequate appropriations, supplemented by deficiency bills, or by the refusal to pay the acknowledged and ascertained obligations of the treasury. The courts of the United States in many districts have been closed and justice denied for want of funds to pay jurors and witnesses."

Memphis, Tenn., is excited. Kennedy Porter, a son of ex-Governor Porter, was severely shot some weeks ago by one Will Edmunds for paying attention to Miss Edmunds. Young Porter, having recovered his health, last week opened fire on Edmunds in the street, who was badly wounded, while Porter escaped on horseback. Two hours later Alexander White, the cashier of the commercial bank of Paris, Tenn., was telling about the fight to a friend in the street, when Dudley Porter, the brother of Kennedy, happening to pass by and overhearing what he was saying, was dissatisfied with his version of the affair, and sought to amend it by informing White that a certain passage in it was a "damned lie." White immediately shot Porter dead, and was probably prompted to do so by the unpleasant memory that Porter on a previous occasion had murdered White's brother. As might be expected, all parties belong to the first families of Tennessee.

Eastern democratic and mugwump papers protest, in an elaborate manner, against the story that President Cleveland is a wife-beater, and are at great pains to discredit it. The story never was a probable one, and no credence has been given to it. No president of the United States will ever be a wife-beater. This story never would have been started, nor would the partisans of Mr. Cleveland think it worth while to defend him against it, were it not for the fact that he is known to be a coarse and gross man, of whom such a thing might be believed.

The vote in Douglas county this year does not indicate any gain in population. The total is 2451 as against 2453 two years ago. Gearin received six more votes than were given to Butler two years ago, while the prohibition vote dwindled from 258 to 141. Hermann's plurality has increased from 195 to 298, which is easily explained by the fact that the republican temperance men did not propose to take any chances of delivering the state over to the democrats by throwing away their votes on the third party movement.

If Thurman should be elected he would not be the oldest man in the senate chamber—Mr. Payne, of Ohio, having been born November 30, 1810, and Mr. Morrill, of Vermont, April 14, 1810, while Mr. Thurman's birthday was November 13, 1813. One member of the supreme court is also his senior, Judge Bradley having been born March 14, 1813. "The Father of the House," Judge Kelley, of Pennsylvania, is five months younger than Mr. Thurman, having been born April 12, 1814.

The most curious thing of the time is Mayor Hewitt's statement that Cleveland wouldn't take Thurman into his cabinet in 1885 because of his objections to "the old Roman's" moral character. But it should be remembered that Cleveland was very particular just then. He had just secured a certificate as to his own chastity from Henry Ward Beecher.

The bandana is the Thurman badge for the canvass. Realizing that the candidacy of Cleveland should also have some appropriate symbol, the Chicago Tribune prints a cut showing a No. 26 collar and bandana together, thus completing the regalia.

The following couplet is prepared by an appreciative poet for the use of the bandana, viz:

> Wipe, boys, wipe! keep your noses clean!
> Wipe, boys, wipe, and all will be serene.

"It is a condition, not a theory, that confronts us." This should be telegraphed to Mr. Grover Cleveland as the true explanation of the Oregon election.

DEPEW.

THE OREGONIAN, some weeks ago, expressed the opinion that the nomination of Chauncey Depew by the republican national convention would not be a wise act, since he could not be as easily elected as some one of several other candidates, even if he could possibly be elected at all. This judgment is sustained by the majority of the intelligent republican press of the West. "The feeling at the West against corporations would make Depew's election impossible" is the judgment of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The Omaha Bee says: "Of all men possible, his nomination would be most disastrous to the republican party. We unqualifiedly assure Mr. Depew that it would lose the party hundreds of thousands of votes and several now sure republican states." The Pittsburg Dispatch admits that Depew has inherited the Blaine mantle, but adds: "It is nevertheless the fact that while his corporation affiliations might not hurt him especially in New York, the slim chances which he would have in that state would be more than overbalanced by his weakness in states no less essential to republican success."

The Cincinnati Commercial Gazette remarks: "Mr. Chauncey M. Depew would have great strength in the state of New York. New York, however, is not the whole nation. There are other candidates who would run well in New York, and possibly show much greater strength than Mr. Depew in other sections."

The record of Mr. Depew is not one necessarily to excite the distrust of candid, intelligent men, but it is just the sort of record that could be plausibly played upon by the opposition to arouse popular prejudice. Mr. Depew's intimacy with Commodore Vanderbilt began as far back as 1866, when he was appointed attorney of the New York & Harlem Railroad Company. In 1875 he was made general counsel to the New York Central system, and he is now its president. His connection with this great corporation has seriously injured his political popularity, which, in his early life, was remarkable. He was elected a member of the New York assembly in 1861, re-elected in 1862 and 1863, and, although the youngest member, was the same year made speaker. The same year he was elected secretary of state, although a democrat (Seymour) was elected governor, and was again elected the next year under Governor Fenton when he was but 27 years old. In 1866 he was appointed minister to Japan, which position he resigned after a month's service. Six years afterwards (in 1872) Depew joined the "Greeley party," accepted the nomination as lieutenant governor with Francis Kernan for governor, came out 3533 behind his ticket. "Sunset" Cox was upon the same ticket as candidate for congressman-at-large. The Tribune Almanac for 1873, page 47, gives these as the totals of their respective votes: Cox, 400,797; Depew, 397,264. It will be seen that Depew ran 3533 votes behind Cox. Depew did not run behind his ticket in 1872 because he failed to preach democratic doctrine with the characteristic zeal of a new convert, for in his speeches during that campaign he denounced the republican party, Grant, and Blaine in language both bitter and forcible. In his speech of September 6, 1872, he denounced the management of the republican party which "visited with administrative displeasure and with party excommunication every effort to stem the tide of corruption and purify public life, and put to the front as the proper exponent of principle and as the best result of American statesmanship, Butler, Chandler and Nye." He declared that Grant's re-election meant that "the policy with which the South has been governed for three years past by military force, by carpet-bag government, by the suspension of the habeas corpus, by the power of bayonet law, will be the policy by which it shall be governed for four years longer; that all the men in office against whom high crimes and misdemeanors have been proved shall remain through a second term, because their acts have received the stamp of approval of the American people, in the re-election of Grant."

Of Blaine, Depew said: "Up in Maine I heard Hannibal Hamlin and James G. Blaine, and men of that character, and of national reputation, telling the republican party that if Horace Greeley was elected they might anticipate another civil war and the payment of the great burden of the rebel debt. They insulted the intelligence of their audience, or else they best appreciated what its intelligence was." It is clear that Depew did not run 3533 votes behind the democratic ticket of 1872 because he failed to utter democratic doctrine. Why then did this man, who retired from politics in 1866, stronger than his party by many thousand votes, run behind his ticket when he returned to politics in 1872? It was because he had suffered in popular confidence from his six years close confidential professional service to Commodore Vanderbilt. This same popular distrust would probably not affect him in New York state to-day, where he is reported to be exceedingly popular with the workingmen of his corporation, but it would affect him at the West, where he is only known as the brilliant representative of a great corporation, its executive, attorney and lobbyist. To illustrate how imprudent it would be to nominate Depew under the existing strong hostility of the Western people to the great corporations, take the state of Michigan, which has thirteen electoral votes. The total vote of Michigan in 1884 was 401,196, of which the fusion democracy received 189,361, the republicans 192,669, the prohibitionists, etc., 19,166, leaving a republican majority over the democrats of but 3308, while the entire opposition gave a majority against them of 16,458. Michigan will be a bad state to take any chances with by nominating a candidate like Depew. The states of Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska contain many thousands of republicans who are bitterly hostile to railroad influence and its representatives. These men neither know nor care anything about Depew's brilliant and fascinating personality, but they do know and do care about the fact that since 1866 Depew spells Vanderbilt.

Representative Dougherty of Florida proposed in congress on Monday the imposition of a tax upon all incomes of persons, corporations, associations and trusts of $5000 and upwards per annum, the proceeds of the tax to be devoted exclusively to the payment of pensions. An income tax is imposed in England, and seems to be collected without difficulty, but in our country it is generally regarded as an odious, inquisitorial tax, and during the war, when it was in force, it was very unpopular and with difficulty collected because easily evaded. The late Samuel J. Tilden made himself conspicuous by refusing to pay his income tax, and as a rule the tax led to perjury and evasion everywhere. Some men swore to a smaller income than they possessed, while others, from a desire to exaggerate their resources and thus enhance their credit, swore to a larger income than they really enjoyed. The income tax does not seem suited to the character of our people, and it is not likely that any proposition for its reimposition will meet with much favor from either party.

When an old man is appealed to as the only man who can save his party from defeat, he is apt to make personal sacrifices. Thurman latterly has represented the better elements of the democratic party. He has tried to hold it to better purposes, but in the effort he has not been successful. When the Standard Oil corporation bought out the democratic party of Thurman's state, retired Thurman himself from the senate and combined with Wall street to put Cleveland in nomination over the old democratic leaders, Thurman realized that he had failed to hold the party to his ideas. But he is too good a democrat to throw an obstacle in the way of the party's success, and therefore accepts the nomination for the vice-presidency, not because he wishes to be identified with Cleveland, but because in his old age he cannot give up the faith of boyhood and ignore his party. Thurman is a Virginian by birth, which accounts for his being a democrat. Hence he clung to his party all the closer because of its identification with slavery, secession and rebellion.

The silver crown which the friends of Jeff Davis intended to present to him at the laying of the Confederate monument at Jackson, Miss., on the 25th ult., was sent from Memphis, and one of the donors wrote a letter dated the 23d, giving directions as to its presentation. Mr. Davis was not present, but his daughter, Winnie Davis, accepted it for him. In the letter of directions was this sentence, "You will please have a garland of rare flowers with the name of Abraham Lincoln interwoven into it." This injunction was not followed, and the monumental committee is asked to explain the failure. Of course the only answer that covers the whole ground would be for the committee to reply that it was stupid enough to crown Davis, but to weave Abraham Lincoln's name into the accompanying garland of flowers would be about as idiotic as it would be for France to send the king of Prussia a silver crown with the inscription, "Napoleon the Great, Jena, October, 1806."

Chinese labor on this coast is not cheaper than Italian labor at the East, if we may judge from the following advertisement that was recently printed in the Philadelphia Record:

> 300 MEN WANT WORK AT 60 CENTS A DAY.
> Where can I get employment for 300 of my countrymen—Italians? They are strong, and are willing to do any kind of labor at 60 cents per day. They are at present at Hazleton. I can have them at any point designated in twenty-four hours. My countrymen can't starve when there is plenty of work to do. JOHN GUSTISVASETY.

CHOICE DESIGNS.

IN AND ABOUT PORTLAND.

A MURDERER'S REMAINS NEGLECTED.—Yesterday morning Mrs. Charles Burch, living at Amity, Yamhill county, arrived in this city from her home. She is the daughter of Mrs. Anna Shannon, the poor victim of the jealous, insane frenzy of Peter Shannon, her husband. Mrs. Burch is almost prostrated with grief over the dreadful, shocking murder of her mother. Her son, who is stationed at Vancouver, is also in the city. All arrangements were made for the funeral of their mother, and the remains were laid to rest yesterday afternoon. Neither the stepson nor stepdaughter will have anything whatever to do with the remains of Shannon. No one appears to have the least sympathy in the matter of the disposition of the body. Shannon, it appears, left no means, and he seems to have no friends or relatives. He will probably be buried to-day in the potter's field, unless some one should take an interest in the matter of the interment.

HOW HE "CHANGED CARS."—When the Telephone landed at Eureka yesterday about noon the Bonita was moored there, but a moment later she was moving away. Just then a man named Chas. Redman, a sturdy, full-bearded man, a passenger on board the Bonita, discovered he was on the wrong boat, and rather than go further he jumped overboard. The water seemed to agree with Redman, for he paddled up to the wharf, where a pole was given to him and he hung on till men on shore gave him a rope and hoisted him on to the wharf. When the witnesses saw the man was safe and unhurt there was a deal of merriment, and one good-natured young fellow yelled to Capt. Scott: "You see now how bad people want to ride on the Telephone." The man, wet as a drowned rat, came on the Telephone and beside her boilers dried himself, none the worse for his leap for liberty.

HACKMAN HORSEWHIPPED.—Monday evening, as three young women were passing the corner of Third and Taylor streets, a hackman asked them to take a ride. One of them told him to drive around the corner and draw up to the sidewalk. He did so, and alighted to open the door of his hack, when two of the young women seized him, and the other, taking his whip from the socket, proceeded to lay it on over his head and shoulders with great vigor. After receiving a small taste of what he richly deserved, he managed to escape, and jumping on his hack, drove off, leaving his whip, as a trophy, in the hands of the young woman. The scene was witnessed by a messenger boy, who knew none of the persons implicated. The young women expressed their intention of making a complaint, but so far nothing has been heard from them.

ANOTHER ADDITION.—The Fulton Park tract, advertised in this issue by the Pacific Land and Investment Company, is one of the largest and most desirable additions ever placed upon the Portland market, embracing, as it does, over 1500 choice building lots. The property is located on the White house road, about one mile south of the present corporation limits, in the growing direction of the city, and is made accessible to the business center by cheap and rapid transportation—a very essential factor in the development of suburban property. The time consumed in reaching Fulton Park is less than ten minutes, and the fare is only 5 cents, being as low as the cheapest horse-car fare in the city.

THE SMALLEST FINE.—Several days since a citizen of Albany wrote to U. S. District Attorney McArthur, stating that George and Frank Cook, two young men of that city, had been furnishing liquor to Indians. They had been arrested, but on its being found that they could not be tried in the state court, it was determined to apply to the United States authorities. Bench warrants were accordingly issued by the U. S. court, which were returned yesterday with the young men. When arraigned in the U. S. district court each entered a plea of guilty, and as it was their first offense and they were not vicious characters, and promised not to commit such an offense again, they were let off with a fine of $10 each.

THE MANZANITA.—Several days since Capt. Sebree returned overland to San Francisco to look personally after the repairs that are being made to the United States lighthouse tender Manzanita. Practically, the extensive overhauling of the steamer is completed, but there are various matters of detail to arrange that will require the presence of Capt. Sebree. The Manzanita will probably not be ready for active service before June 18, and it will be several days later before the steamer will sail for the Columbia river. As the tender will doubtless touch at the several stations on the way up the coast, she will not be at Astoria until toward the last of June.

ELECTED ON THE REPUBLICAN TICKET.—Through some mistake it was stated in the election returns that Mr. W. S. Moore, of Klamath county, was elected county judge of that county on the democratic ticket. The fact is, Mr. Moore was elected on the republican ticket, by a majority of ninety-three. He has always been a republican, and as he will not be pleased to see it stated that he was elected on the democratic ticket, this correction is made. It may be added that the correction is made all the more readily, as it is learned from Mr. Moore's brother-in-law, Hon. D. P. Thompson, that he intends visiting this city in the near future.

WANTED AN INDICTMENT QUASHED.—In the criminal court yesterday morning counsel for Dr. William Elsen, who was indicted for libeling Rev. C. J. Larsen, made a motion to have the indictment quashed, on the ground that the name of Thomas Kearney, one of the grand jurors, does not appear on the assessment roll. Judge Stearns remarked that such a thing would be quite impossible, inasmuch as the grand jurors are selected from the regular panel of trial jurors which was drawn from the assessment roll. District Attorney McGinn said that Mr. Kearney was a property owner. Judge Stearns denied the motion.

NO VIOLATIONS OF THE SALMON LAW.—State Fish Commissioners F. C. Reed, E. P. Thompson and R. C. Campbell returned yesterday from Astoria. While there they investigated as to whether the fish law is being violated in reference to Sunday fishing and the use of gill nets. They found that the law is being obeyed in every particular. Mr. Reed says that about twenty-eight canneries are running on the lower river. The run, he says, is light, but a little better than at the same time last year. He estimates the pack so far this season at between 120,000 and 150,000 cases.

WILL NOT RUN INDEPENDENT.—Edward Holman was asked yesterday if he intended, as reported, to run as independent republican candidate for councilman from the Second ward in opposition to Farrell. "In the language of the day, I have no 'kick' coming," replied Mr. Holman, laughingly. "Furthermore, if Mr. Farrell meets with any opposition at the polls I will be glad to support him heartily. Being in the undertaking business, I am willing to furnish my own coffin, but I think that Mr. Farrell should pay for it."

BROUGHT TO THE HOSPITAL.—W. W. Stricklin, the Clackamas county man who was found insensible alongside the railroad track at Arlington Saturday morning, having evidently been thrown from a train which he attempted to board, was brought to this city from his home near Oregon City yesterday and taken to St. Vincent's hospital for treatment. His case is a very grave one, and his recovery doubtful. His body below the waist was paralyzed, and concussion of the brain caused by the fall. He is conscious.

UNDESIRABLE TOURISTS.—A large number of professional tourists are arriving over the O. & C. every day and, pending the building of the new hotel, they remain in or near the company's cars. Most of them, having plenty of time to spare, walk the entire distance from San Francisco and enjoy the scenery hugely, while a few come by the brake beam route. These fellows, who have become tired of Southern California booms and climate, give the police considerable annoyance, but are kept moving.

SUCCESSFUL ARTESIAN WELL.—The artesian well bored to furnish a supply of water for the garrison at Vancouver yields a plenteous supply of the best water. The government is about to lay pipes from the well to supply the buildings on the reserve, and some $25,000 has been received for that purpose. A ten-inch pipe will be laid for about 3000 feet; and two six-inch pipes across the reserve, from which service pipes will be laid into the barracks, officers' quarters and other buildings.

CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES ARRANGED.—The Willamettes have accepted the proposition of the Portlands to play a series of eight games as published in yesterday's OREGONIAN, and the first game will be played at Clinton & McCoy's grounds, East Portland, next Sunday. McCarthy and Burke will be the battery for the Portlands, and Turnbull and Tom or "Jiggs" Parrott for the Willamettes. The series will determine the championship, and every game will be for "blood."

NOVEL ATTRACTION.—The Fourth of July committee have received a communication from McMinnville, where there is a company of twenty young ladies who form a cavalry company, and are very proficient in the sword drill. They dress in scarlet and gilt uniforms, and use foils. Their proposition will be laid before the Fourth of July committee, which meets to-night at the council chambers. Their presence and drill would certainly prove a great attraction.

HAND AMPUTATED.—John McIntosh, a young man employed at Gov. Pennoyer's sawmill, met with a serious accident entailing the loss of his right hand yesterday afternoon. He was working at a planer and in stepping on the lever to throw the belt off the pulley, he slipped and was pitched forward, his hand striking the planer and being caught under the heavy blades. It was frightfully mangled as far up as the wrist. Mr. McIntosh was taken to his home.

ANOTHER VISIT FROM THE LEPERS.—Nine lepers broke out of their enclosure at the poor farm last evening, and making their way into Chinatown demanded $50 from their countrymen, which they did not get. They repeated the threadbare story that they are insufficiently fed, which has been proved false. The lepers took up station in the Joss house, where they were provided for last night, and this morning they will be returned to their quarters.

OFFICERS ELECTED.—At a meeting of the newly elected board of trustees of the Boys' and Girls Aid Society, held in W. B. Gilbert's law office last evening, the following officers were elected: President, H. W. Corbett; secretary, F. E. Beach; superintendent, Ira F. Powers; treasurer, L. L. Hawkins; executive committee, W. B. Gilbert, Ira F. Powers and Miss Helen F. Spaulding; finance committee, J. A. Strowbridge, S. Farrell and L. L. Hawkins.

IMMENSE DAY'S BUSINESS.—Last Tuesday, following legal holidays on the previous Saturday and Monday, the transactions of the [illegible] National bank amounted to a little over $2,500,000. That is to say they received and paid out this immense sum—the largest day's business, by far, ever done in the city. It is proper to say in this connection that the volume of business done by the banks of Portland thus far in 1888 is greatly in excess of the corresponding period of 1887, and it is rapidly growing larger day by day. This is simply another proof of the unparalleled activity and prosperity now pervading Portland.

NEW STYLES.—If you want to see the most magnificent display of parlor goods ever shown in this city, and all exhibited on the ground floor, just drop into G. Shindler & Co.'s warerooms at 166 First street.

LOCAL NOTES.

A marriage license was granted yesterday for John A. Strom and Louisa Faller.

In an item about Southern Oregon peaches yesterday "Ashland" was misprinted "Oakland."

The trial of Wm. Caples, indicted for stealing a calf from A. L. Minor, was set for the 21st by Judge Stearns yesterday.

Mrs. W. S. Bruce, charged with the larceny of a water tank from Mrs. Ross, was discharged by Justice Tuttle owing to the insufficiency of evidence.

A report reached here Monday that John Crawford, of Vancouver, now engaged in fishing on the lower Columbia was drowned near Waterford. The report was unfounded.

Elocutionary entertainment at Grace M. E. church this evening, by Miss Corabel Tarr, who is acknowledged one of the finest readers on the coast. Good music, too. Adults 50c, children 25c.

A contractor who is building a house on Eighth street, between Stark and B, has had the street almost blocked with lumber. He has not taken out a building permit and should be made to comply with the law.

The well bored on Portland Hights fails to supply the amount of water required. The pump will be taken out to ascertain whether the fault is in it or in the well. If the latter is the case the well will be bored deeper.

A large lot of the finest split oak and pole oak wood seen here in many a day is being secured by Moore & Starr, of the Pioneer Wood Yard, foot of Morrison street. Persons desiring prime wood should secure some of this.

The Fourth of July committee collected up to last night nearly $9000. The committee will be out again to-day. It is hardly necessary to urge citizens to show their liberality by helping the coming Fourth with a good contribution, because most of them need no urging.

Declarations of intention of becoming citizens were filed with the county clerk yesterday by John Madsen, a native of Denmark; A. G. Bobanz, a native of Germany; Peter Robertson and Bernard Henry, a native of Great Britain, and Adam de Haan, a native of Holland.

Horace Giltner, arrested on election day by Deputy United States Marshal Emil Webber, charged with bribery, was examined before United States Commissioner Paul R. Deady yesterday, and held to answer in $500 bail. The person making the complaint is a brother-in-law of Weber.

Work was commenced yesterday on the extension of the Transcontinental Railway Company's track from Third street down to Yamhill. So vigorously was the work pushed that the track for nearly a block was laid last evening. At this rate it will not take long to extend the track down to Front and around up Morrison to Third.

One day last week Dr. W. H. Saylor, assisted by Drs. Geo. M. Wells, A. C. Panton and A. J. Geisy, performed the operation of ovariatomy on Mrs. John S. Herron, of Ashland, Oregon. The lady was 55 years old. The tumor, weighing sixteen pounds, was successfully removed, and the patient has recovered from the first effect of the operation, and is doing very well.

Monday night at the conclusion of the regular meeting of No. 3 fire engine company the members presented Edward Thayer, foreman of the company, a life-sized crayon portrait of himself, as a mark of their esteem. The members of the company who gave the present were: Wm. Wascher, engineer; David Fuller, engine driver; H. White, cart driver; J. J. Flynn, Charles Price, J. Young, Edward Chlopeck, Fred Hicks and Tom Richards, extramen.

PERSONAL.

Mr. B. W. Wilson, of Corvallis, is in the city.

Judge Frank Allyn and wife, of Tacoma, are at the Esmond.

State Railroad Commissioner G. A. Waggoner and J. R. N. Bell, clerk of the commission, are at the St. Charles.

Mr. C. C. Beekman and wife, Miss Carrie Beekman and Miss Hattie Reames of Jacksonville, are at the St. Charles.

Samuel Bernhard and J. D. Hauser, former Portland boys, are here as travelers for Eastern and California firms.

Mr. A. Nasburg, of Marshfield, member of the republican state central committee for Coos county, is in the city.

State Senator Walter Sinclair, representing the joint district of Coos, Curry and Josephine, is at the St. Charles. He is a delegate to the grand lodge A. F. & A. M.

Mr. Ben Stern, manager of the Patti Rosa Company, is in town. Patti Rosa opens at the New Park next Monday evening. She is one of the brightest actresses on the stage.

Dr. J. H. Hatch, of San Francisco, arrived in the city yesterday, and, with his wife, is visiting Dr. Henry E. Jones and family. The doctor will be remembered by many old-timers. This is his first visit in twelve years, and he notices with pride the many and substantial improvements of the city.

AND A NEW THEATER, TOO.

The Architect to Arrive Here Early Next Month With Plans.

Now, that the new hotel in Portland is an assured fact and the question has been satisfactorily settled, the people have begun to ask, "What about the new opera house?" A certain gentleman of very ample resources, whose name need not be given now, has made an offer to Messrs. J. P. Howe and Robert Hudson, managers of the northern circuit, that he will build an opera house for them whenever he is satisfied that a first class place of amusement can be built for $50,000. They have guaranteed him a handsome rental for a period of five years, and expect within four weeks to furnish convincing testimony as to the cost. Messrs. Howe & Hudson have been in correspondence with Mr. J. N. Wood, a theatrical architect of national reputation with regard to plans. Mr. Wood is now engaged in building a theater in Los Angeles, and has promised to come to Portland about July 1, or as soon thereafter as his work will permit. He can build a first-class theater within the limit mentioned, as such work is an old, old story with him. Following is a partial list of theaters planned by him, and built under his supervision:

Hennepin Avenue theatre, Minneapolis, Minn.
Murray opera house, St. Paul, Min.
Blake opera house, Racine, Wis.
Grand opera house, Warsaw, Wis.
New Academy, Milwaukee, Wis.
Rockford opera house, Rockford, Ill.
Du Bois opera house, Elgin, Ill.
Grand opera house, Danville, Ill.
Green's opera house, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.
Whitney's grand opera house, Detroit, Mich.
Academy of Music, East Saginaw, Mich.
Wood's opera house, Bay City, Mich.
Academy of Music, Kalamazoo, Mich.
Redmond's opera house, Grand Rapids, Mich.
Power's opera house, Grand Rapids, Mich.
Smith's opera house, Grand Rapids, Mich.
Academy of Music, Meadville, Pa.
Grand opera house, Franklin, Pa.
Grand opera house, Oil City, Pa.
Eleventh Avenue opera house, Altoona, Pa.
Opera house, Greenville, Ohio.
Grand opera house, Richmond, Ind.
Academy of Music, Crawfordsville, Ind.
New Toronto opera house, Toronto, Ont.
Hannibal opera house, Hannibal, Mo.

Should this project for any reason fail to materialize, Portland will have a new theater anyhow, as Mr. Hudson, who has ample means, promises to build one himself.

Findings in the Case of John Bigne Against Manciet.

Claims to the Amount of Nearly $17,000 Allowed and the Property Ordered Divided—Other Probate Matters

In the county court yesterday Judge Catlin rendered his findings in the matter of the claims of John Bigne against the estate of Pierre Manciet.

It was adjudged by the court that lots 1 and 2, block 128, city, together with the St George hotel and dwelling thereon and blocks 92, 93, in East Portland and five acres in sections 5, 6 7 and 8, T 1 S R 2 E were at the time of Pierre Manciet's death April 12 1881 the property of the partnership of Manciet and John Bigne and each was entitled to an equal share that John B David now administrator of said partnership, is entitled to the possession thereof and is vested with power of control for the purpose of settling the administration of the partnership

It was also decreed that Pierre Manciet was at the time of his death, the owner in fee simple of about 9½ acres in the Gideon Tibbits donation land claim and that John Bigne, as executor of the estate is entitled to and is vested with the control of the same for the purpose of administration

It was further ordered that John Bigne be allowed $7,890 81 against his partnership estate with Manciet. Bigne was also allowed $9,539 87 on his claim against the individual estate of Manciet

Bigne and his heirs and assigns were declared the owners of the undivided one-half of all the partnership estate of Manciet & Bigne and Administrator David was directed after paying the claim for $7 890 81, and all claims and expenses to turn over to Bigne one-half of all the remaining assets, and the residue to the executor All other claims of Bigne except those mentioned were disallowed

FULLY ADMINISTERED

Rev B. Orth, administrator of the estate of David Henry Blanchet filed his final account in the county court yesterday, and July 17 was set by Judge Catlin for the hearing of it The report shows that the receipts were $5431 02, disbursements $1114 21, cash on hand $4316 21 Father Orth reports that the estate has been fully administered and asks for the approval of his account and for an order directing him to pay $719 46 to each of the following, they being the devisees of the deceased Joseph Blanchet, Vinson Umatilla county, Oregon, Louis Blanchet Ashby, Montana, Oliver Blanchet, Bonanza City, Idaho, Victor Blanchet St Lion de Stanton, Canada, Eugene Blanchet Revere du Loup station Canada, Eloise Blanchet, Quebec, Canada.

HOW TO DESTROY BEDBUGS.

Also Some Facts and Observations Relative to the Hotel Insect

"De June bug hab de golden wing
De lightning bug de flame,
De bedbug hab no wing at all
But he gets dar just de same

The above has no reference to the late election It resembles that affair only in being a painful subject (for some people) to write about "Poverty" the old adage says 'makes us acquainted with strange bed-fellows' and the insect above mentioned is one of the most unwelcome and disagreeable of the fellows alluded to although it is no stranger in many places the other fellow in the bed being the stranger

But a truce to nonsense, bedbugs exist and there is nothing on earth which a good housewife beholds with more horror and dismay than one of these nocturnal prowlers on her premises The general public will be inclined to believe that there is more truth than poetry in the above stanza but when the calcium light of science is turned upon it it will be found that such is not the case The encyclopedia describes the bed bug

A well-known hemipterous insect, infesting beds houses dove-cotes and the nests of swallows bats etc. In eleven days after being hatched it reaches its full size. It is tenacious of life and has been kept alive for more than a year in a sealed bottle without food. Cockroaches devour them in great numbers, etc

It may be true that the pestiferous insect attains its full size in eleven days but if it gets a fair show at a good, healthy sound sleeper it will be double its full size in about eleven minutes The object of this article will be made plain further on but in the meantime it is necessary to say something on the subject of the bed bugs wings Probably no living person has seen one fly but they have wings 'all de same' Being a hemipterous insect, it has anterior wings or wing covers, transparent toward the end and the true wings straight and unplaited and feeds on animal juices by means of a sucking tube" This may give a clue to the appearance of this unwelcome guest in unexpected places Many know to their sorrow how difficult it is to get rid of this insect when it has once effected a lodgment It comes to stay and it is generally considered that nothing short of burning the house and furniture will drive it out

A sufferer sends in a recipe for the instantaneous and complete extermination of bed bugs with a desire that it be printed in THE OREGONIAN for the relief of other sufferers It is simply to burn a handful of brimstone and sulphur in the room infested closing the doors and windows tightly Care is needed to prevent setting fire to the house as the desired result can be attained without sacrificing one's home This is warranted a perfect and lasting cure After the brimstone is burned by leaving the windows open all odor soon vanishes

THE KEY DISCOVERED

PORTLAND June 12

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

I have read with much interest and pleasure your criticisms on Mr Donnelly's forthcoming book which is intended to convince the literary world that Lord Bacon is the real author of Shakespeare's plays From what has been published it would seem that Mr Donnelly has found what he terms a cipher running through certain of the plays which, when the key thereto is made known will establish the fact and show conclusively that Lord Bacon wrote the plays in question

The key to the cipher has not yet been made known fully to the public, but we have the sure promise of Mr. Donnelly that in due time the said key shall be published and given to the world. Your correspondent is of the opinion that he has discovered the key, and as there is a large degree of interest felt in certain circles on this subject, he makes free to give the key to the world in advance of Mr. Donnelly's publication, and whether it should prove to be Mr Donnelly's key or not is of no consequence as it will be found by actual trial that the key here given will clearly unfold Mr Donnelly's system so far as published.

The key may be found in the play entitled "Much Ado About Nothing" act 4, scene 2 and reads

Don't forget that I am an ass Oh that he were here to write me down an ass Oh, that I had been written down an ass

Mr Donnelly will kindly excuse this advance publication of the key The interest felt on the subject is our excuse for so doing

BROWNSVILLE Or June 11

Born near Brownsville on the 7th inst to the wife of W B Tycer a son

Mr James Lewis and Miss Ethel Lewis of Corvallis are here visiting their sister, Mrs F Willson

Messrs McSawyer and Ballard Tycer have just returned from a logging camp in the Sound country

Mr Chickenpeel and family a newcomer here have gone for a short trip to the hot springs on the middle fork of the Willamette

John Franzen and family Miss Rettie Rice and Joseph White have departed for Belknap Springs for a month's sojourn in the mountains

Mr W R Kirk, our fellow townsman who was a candidate on the republican ticket for representative got beaten by a small majority and takes his defeat with good grace He can afford to as he ran ahead of his ticket

Mrs R Skiff and son of Portland arrived here last week and is stopping with her parents Her little boy was taken down with scarlet fever three days after her arrival and is very sick

Mr J F Venner and family arrived here night before last from Prineville and Mr D C Cushman brought a load of household goods down for Mr V , and has been in the bunchgrass country for several months

During the past few days fine showers have fallen, and crops and gardens are growing nicely Cherries are getting very plenty and raspberries are just beginning to come in Apple pear and plum trees are heavily loaded and promised more than an average crop

The election passed off very quietly here and while the republicans elected but two county officers they feel very glad to see that the democratic majority here is very much smaller than usual and when the news of Hermann's great victory in the state reached us the smiling faces all around us made us forget our little county matters

The result in this state is a genuine surprise, but it shows that the free trade doctrines of our opponents has at last brought us to our senses and for once the democratic party has committed itself fairly and squarely to something it has been wanting to indorse for many years, but always lacked the nerve till now An old gentleman here who has voted the democratic ticket for over fifty years and who is still a thorough democrat and intends to support his party this fall told the writer yesterday that from the way things looked to him now he gave up all hopes of electing Cleveland and Thurman this fall Says he Free trade has done it in Oregon and it will do the same all over the United States

NEWS FROM THE EAST SIDE.

Address of Dr. Ross C. Houghton to the Public School Graduates.

A Bad Boy from Tacoma Steals a Horse—Talk of a Citizens' Ticket—Bonds Forfeited—Notes

Rev Dr Ross C Houghton delivered an educational lecture at the Presbyterian church last evening before the teachers and pupils of the East Portland High school the occasion being the annual commencement exercises The audience was a very large and appreciative one and gave a most flattering attention to the speaker He said in substance

The one work of the schools and colleges of our land is to thoroughly educate the children and youth who throng their classrooms and in the best possible manner fit them for the future duties of American citizenship To educate according to the well known etymology of the word is to draw out and develop the mental and moral powers with which the child is already endowed

The development of the memory alone is not education If it were the Chinese would be the best educated people on the face of the earth All knowledge is valuable but knowledge which depends on memory alone cannot be among the great intellectual forces of the world Available aggressive revolutionizing knowledge must have life infused into it by the trained mind which will absorb it.

One of the greatest evils of our educational system is wrought by those instructors who exalt the memory as their chief educational tool They are the worst of tyrants compelling their victims to adopt the narrow theory that the mere acquisition of knowledge is true education and making them more like machines than thinking beings

Under the pressure of this pernicious [illegible] additional and excessive hours are demanded for school work more abundant instruction to [illegible] exactly remembered is given strict [illegible] of attendance are enforced less attention is given to the physical ability of the pupil to endure the strain children are sent home with school books under their arms, the study of which is to take up the hours which ought to be devoted to recreation Sensitive children are unable to sleep through the anxiety which comes from over work and after they are forced up to a certain pitch and the examinations are passed and the coveted diploma is secured the knowledge they have acquired vanishes like a dream, and leaves them to begin the struggle of life with no particular advantage over common and less favored mortals

All education of course involves the acquisition of a certain amount of knowledge, since the thinking faculty cannot otherwise be trained but true education is the development of the thinking power of the human mind The powers of the understanding must be strengthened and enlarged and the student must be taught how to use them in mastering any subject He must be taught how to determine and examine for himself all the questions put before him how to handle his mind as a tool, and thus to realize the very purposes for which the mind was given him Thinking to purpose is the grandest achievement of the human intellect an achievement, however, which the great majority of even so-called educated people entirely miss both in aspiration and in reality The old man looks down and thinks of the past. The young man looks up and thinks of the future The child looks everywhere and thinks of nothing And there are a great many children in the world.

How can a boy in school be taught how to think? Not by demanding of him a correct repetition of the information contained in a certain book but by a system of careful questioning by a teacher who is master of the subject in hand and who is so enthusiastic and conscientious in his work that he spares no time or labor in the intellectual development of his pupil

Let every student dig in his own garden From such a cultivation of his own powers are to come all right to be called a scholar in any given direction and all fitness for the particular burdens which may be laid upon him

What he gains from outside sources will be his tools while his own powers (symmetrically developed or immature, as the case may be) will determine his fitness or unfitness to successfully use those tools At this point which is vital to every youth who aspires to be really educated we discover all the difference between a philosopher and a fool between a statesman and a narrow politician between a practical man and a visionary theorist between a scholar and a mere book worm between the man who like a sponge absorbs everything and the man who imparts strength to society Inspiration to the intellectual world adds to the world's store of knowledge and does his full share towards lifting up his generation to a larger measure of wisdom and worth This guiding a boy's mind so that he may discover truth for himself is hard work It keeps a teacher on the alert and prevents his falling into a professional rut, but it is wonderfully gratifying in its results

So far as the pupils are concerned it will inevitably be a case of the survival of the fittest for the shallow brained and stupid will go down in the struggle but the fittest will gain the mountain top by right of conquest and be a thousand fold more valuable to their generation for the rugged path they have trod. Such a superior teacher becomes his pupil's companion They think together and consult together how best to make the desired discovery how to accomplish this task in such a manner as to be better qualified to grapple with the next.

The extent of ground gone over and the number of subjects considered during a given year is altogether of secondary importance The real test is in the quality of the youth's mental fiber and his ability to grapple with the facts and practical problems of the calling to which he may give his life and in which he may purpose to fight his battles and win his victories Fewer studies and better work would be an appropriate motto for most schools in our land We have reason to be proud of our common school system for it is undoubtedly the best in the world But like a machine its value depends entirely upon its fitness in skilled hands to accomplish certain desired results Hence while we emphasize its excellencies and appreciate the skill and devotion of those who manage it we are not to be blind to its defects Perfection in all educational methods should be our aim and I certainly believe that just at this point, namely the development of the thinking powers of the average pupil thus educating him in the highest sense of the word, there is room for improvement

Just how this is to be accomplished I cannot say but if the attention of intelligent citizens is once fully turned to the subject the capable and devoted teachers which for the most part are found in the schools will undoubtedly find out some way to meet our demand

Dr Houghton closed his address by making an application of the general subject to the reading period of a young person's student life a period which rightfully comes after graduation from high school or college and marks his development in general culture—increasing his knowledge broadening his views and to a considerable extent furnishing him the material for the skilled work he is expected to perform for the world

This part of the address was an earnest plea in the interests of thorough culture for less reading and more thinking In order to the best results something more is necessary than even the most judicious and persistent reading There must be just as judicious and persistent thinking Haphazard reading even of good books adds but little to one's store of knowledge and helps but little in the development and strengthening of the mental powers

YOUNG HORSE THIEF

Some time since a 14 year old boy named Frank Ayer went from his home in Tacoma to work on a ranch near Aurora He disappeared the latter part of last week and took with him one of the farmer's horses. The farmer followed the boy this way and arrived in East Portland without having run across him He notified the officers here and as it was expected that the boy would make his way to Tacoma Morgan went over and watched the outgoing trains A boy was found in a box car who answered to the description of the young criminal but he proved not the one wanted being an East Portland boy who seemed on his way to Washington territory The farmer concluded he had missed the boy somewhere on the road and so he started back on the Milwaukie road He found the boy in Sellwood where he had sold the horse The youthful criminal was taken into custody

Donnelly's Neglected Book

London Morning Post

Poor Mr Donnelly! He came to England with great expectations and it was thought that after so much advertisement his Great Cryptogram would sell by thousands whereas all interest seemed to have exhausted itself just as the book was ready It has been in the book-shops for some days now but there it seems likely to remain One of the largest of London booksellers tells us he has not sold a single copy Even the Bacon Society can not altogether swallow the cipher so it is probable that Mr Donnelly will return to America a sadder if not a wiser man One obvious reason for the sudden diminution of interest in Mr Donnelly's book immediately upon its appearance is the absence of novelty in the first volume and the absence of lucidity in the second

ALONG THE WEST SIDE.

A Trip from Portland to Airlie and Return.

What is to be Seen Along One Branch of the Oregonian Railway—The Farms and the Scenery

But a faint idea of the extent wealth or beauty of the great Willamette valley can be formed by any one passing through it by the great highway the east side line of the O & C railroad To form any adequate conception of this vast area of fertile land and happy homes one must pass over all four of the lines of railroad which traverse it In passing over the east side road one sees and admires the level prairies of Marion Linn and Lane counties and thinks there can be nothing finer than taking a trip up the west side through the fertile plains of Washington county and the gently undulating and broad spreading fields of Yamhill Polk and Benton counties one is apt to imagine that he has seen all the beauty and fertility of the great valley But he has yet the narrow gauge lines to go over, and starting from Ray's Landing on the east side branch and spinning across French prairie and away across level wheatfields to Silverton then south through the magnificent Waldo hills section where the finest of wheat is produced on past the Howell prairie away up to that noted region in the forks of the Santiam which outsiders call Canada where hops and tobacco thrive in rich alluvial deposits of the roaring Santiam and then along through Linn and Lane counties among fair fields and picturesque buttes and near enough to the foothills of the Cascades to see the vistas of fertile valleys running back into the mountains away up to Coburg on the swift rolling McKenzie After seeing this beautiful and picturesque panorama a man may well imagine that the Willamette can have no beauties which he has not seen

But the longer one lives and the farther one travels the more he finds out and let no one imagine that he has seen the Willamette valley until he has passed over the east side narrow gauge

The writer was one of a party who a day or two since through the courtesy of Mr C N Scott made the trip over this line and saw some of the most beautiful country under the sun

We left Portland at 8 A M with rain threatening and were soon at Oswego getting a glimpse of the buildings and furnace of the Oregon Iron and Steel Company now rapidly approaching completion as we passed Then a glance at the works on the mountain side where a new mine is being opened and on through interminable rows of wood cut to furnish charcoal for the furnaces over the Tualatin's sluggish stream and up to the summit of the Nehalem gap, where we get a glimpse of the Lafayette hills clothed in the living green of growing wheat fields and presenting a much more beautiful and inviting appearance than the promised land ever could have done, if Hon D P Thompson saw it aright and he probably did Here the sun shone out and added new beauty to the scene

The town of Dundee is soon reached and just beyond we see where acres on acres of young oaks are being cut to supply fuel for Portland and shortly after passing it we get among the wheat fields which extend almost without intermission to the end of the journey Whirling along by Lafayette and across the Yamhill always through fields of wheat or stretches of summer fallow where flocks of sheep and droves of hogs are making themselves useful in keeping down the wild oats and other pests of the farmer White's crossing is soon reached where although there is no train in sight we come to a dead stop and the engine gives two whistles as required by law and then we pass across the broad gauge of the O & C and get between it and the Coast range the jagged sky line of which looms up in the distance

The sides of the road are gay with wild flowers of many varieties and once in a while a wheat field is passed where the bright and many hued but detested French pink blooms in rich profusion showing need of more careful cultivation

We are now in a section of big farms and soon pass the Briedwell place which last season produced 100 000 bushels of wheat and enter the possessions of Messrs Ladd and Reed Broadmeads farm of 8000 broad acres where fine buildings good fences miles of osage orange hedges and herds of blooded cattle show how well farming goes when there is a bank behind it At Sheridan junction which is on this magnificent ranch a pause was made and all alighted

The view from this point is one of the most beautiful in the valley and beggars description The eye roams across the fertile plain to the oak clad hills on one side and the rugged Coast range on the other Along the mountain peaks lay great piles of fog pouring slowly down the ravines while away on the range of low hills to the east a shower of rain could be seen moving slowly along and down the center of the plain a broad bar of sunshine poured from a rift in the clouds The whole forms a picture seldom seen and not soon forgotten From this point past Ballston and the Devil's half acre to Sheridan is seven miles Sheridan is nestled close under the foothills of the Coast range which looked quite brown and California like and were the only spots seen during the trip which were not clothed with verdure In a few years the road will doubtless be extended from this point to the Nestucca which will be the nearest point for Portlanders to reach the coast and will no doubt become a great summer resort

Turning back the train stops again near the junction while all partake of a splendid luncheon provided by our hostess Mrs Scott after which we spin around onto the main line and start south again

In a short time the thriving and beautiful town of Dallas is reached where we stop for a few minutes The citizens have lately subscribed $6000 for a new hotel which is well under way near the station A $10,000 flouring mill is also to be erected there at once and everything looks prosperous and flourishing A few miles from Dallas we pass Monmouth and are at this point only a few miles from the Willamette and from a point near can see Independence on the bank of the river Continuing our course it is easy to see that we are approaching the mountains The track runs close by low spurs and through narrow valleys and the land becomes more rolling and there is more timber in sight and finally the end of our journey is reached at Airlie seventy nine miles from Portland sixteen miles from Corvallis and only thirteen from the summit of the Coast range where the Oregon Pacific crosses it

The run home was made in fine style and everybody voted the excursion one of the most pleasant in which they had ever participated A more beautiful country to travel through or a more pleasant day for traveling it would be hard to find The only thing to be regretted was that it was not possible to visit the towns along the route

At some future day when the large farms of the Willamette valley are cut up into small ones of 80 or 160 acres each and a thrifty farmer obtaining the best possible results from each with the broad plains undulating slopes thickly dotted with neat houses and barns with corresponding number of churches and school houses it will be a section without a peer on the Pacific slope or anywhere else C

FUTURE OF SHEEP

It seems unlikely that congress will recognize the claim of farmers to protection for their wool It is a case of great cry and little wool and after tariff tinkering is done with the farmer may not be home shorn The great flocks that have pastured there and empire may disappear and the twenty millions of pounds of wool that was shorn from them may disappear with them and that great staple no longer be produced here What the future of sheep husbandry will be cannot be stated off hand but it certainly cannot stand where it has unless protection furnishes the margin of profit as heretofore It is possible wool may remain on the duty list but it must be at least at present rates of tariff to continue the business in force

Should President Cleveland's programme be carried out then the duty on wool will be removed, and all the world will come in competition with American products There are tens of millions of acres at the Cape and Australia and South America that have no other use but for sheep to run on them Our sheep men cannot compete successfully with these immense pasture ranges that rejoice already in anticipation that the old American policy will at last be abandoned for free trade. The only excuse for sheep husbandry in many parts will thereafter be to produce superior mutton carcasses with wool as incidental to meat. This will call out the quality of the downs and we shall see a great change in all the features of sheep husbandry as at present existing among us

ASPARAGUS

Go through this state in early spring and you will not find on the tables of one in five, or perhaps one in ten of our farmers, such early vegetables as asparagus, or pieplant, or that excellent relish horseradish. Yet all of these are plants that once got in good condition will give their yield for many years This will relate to asparagus more particularly for though the season is past, another season will come, and it would be well if farmers became interested in securing for their families this great delicacy and healthy and easy vegetable

Asparagus grew a hundred years ago in our grandfathers gardens and a century before that in those of their grandsires' It is no new thing and has scarcely been improved from what it was one hundred years ago though the means of its production have become simplified somewhat It comes with the earliest spring and is so tender and delicious that it is a pity almost a shame, that our people do not possess it freely. An asparagus bed can be made and when once growing well can be relied on for regular production for many years A good bed should be prepared seeds planted or plants set at least two feet apart. When growing well they should be top dressed with stable manure every season The plant grows up forms a tall and spreading top, full of seeds, but the stalk fresh from the soil, when three or four inches high is eaten The knife is used to cut it two inches or three under the surface Then the green sprout above the ground is as tender and rich as marrow Cooked with cream or butter and laid on toast it is perfectly delicious and as healthy as it is good to the taste. Having cut off the sprout another soon comes and the whole bed will be covered with them - such a bed say eight by twenty feet will give an ordinary sized family enough for their use all the spring

SORE TEATS, OR GARGET

A correspondent of Hoard's Dairyman gives a cure of his own for this troublesome complaint He says At first one teat will milk harder than the rest, and gets worse until scarce a drop can be got from it. The quarter of the bag it represents is hard and swollen He lets the teat thus affected alone for four days rubbing on linseed oil twice a day giving the cow five drops of aconite, on an ear of corn night and morning, and not giving the cow a full grain ration during this time He milks on the fifth day and generally has no trouble. If it begins to milk hard again give another rest and there is no trouble afterwards. This is a simple way of treating a troublesome complaint, and at this time of the year there may be many persons who will be glad to know how to treat it

CABBAGES

This useful and common vegetable can be easily grown and easily kept through the winter Not long since a carload of cabbage went through this valley and on up the Columbia on its way to Butte, in Montana. It is possible that other carloads have gone since then and have gone often this spring. The question that comes home to producers here is Why do miners in Montana have to depend on California for their supply of cabbage? and why do the people of this valley eat California cabbage this spring? These questions show that something is wrong in the producing capacity of Western Oregon. It is to be hoped that the present year will see cabbage enough planted to supply Montana from Oregon as well as to supply our own home market

AN INDIAN TRAMP

Hole in the Wall Joins the Leisure Class and Thrives.

A brawny Indian of middle age, tattered, soiled and boosy stood leaning against the southeast corner of the Erie depot yesterday, says the Binghamton Republican and a pencil driver immediately corralled him for an interview

How are times? began the scribe by way of introduction

Hard replied the noble Red, with a sad shake of his grimy head Hole-in the-Wall is like the aged hemlock The cold north wind whistles through his whiskers, and for fifteen minutes he has not tasted fire-water."

Pretty tough murmured the sympathetic reporter Of course the cursed paleface is to blame He probably won't trust you

And all these lands they once belonged to my people continued Lo waxing warm with sense of injustice Those broad fields that were once covered with antelopes are now covered with mortgages and belong to the paleface Once the Indian could roam through the wild forest from Lackawaxen to Salamanca and get plenty to eat. Now he must bump coal trains and get his eyes full of cinders

You don't look as if your rations had been cut short ventured the reporter

The Indian is brave He fears not the pale face squaw when she pursues him with a kettle of boiling water The growling bull-dog has no terrors for the warrior's heart. The Indian is brave He will not starve."

Whither bound noble son of Pocahontas?" questioned the interviewer in turn waxing poetic

Hole in the Wall came from the Allegheny last night and will go on again when the moon rises

But why did you not continue your journey last evening instead of stopping off at Binghamton Have you friends here?"

The red man's friends are all in the happy hunting ground He stopped here because the paleface brakeman's boots are heavy The Indian is no hog He knows when he has enough

Further questioning elicited in substance that he belonged to the Cattaraugus reservation and is tramping because too lazy to work

HEWITT AGAINST CLEVELAND

There have been many intimations of late that Mayor Hewitt of New York, one of the strongest of the democratic leaders of that state was opposed to the re-election of Cleveland The Buffalo News of June 1 prints a letter from George B Kitchum, now of New York city but formerly of Buffalo, in which the following conversation just had between himself (Ketchum) and Hewitt, is reported

Mr Mayor you drew up the tariff plank in the platform of the democratic convention of 1884?"

Yes I did

Have you prepared a tariff plank for the St. Louis convention ?

I have not prepared anything for that convention and I shall do nothing about it nor about the canvass

As a democrat will you not do all you can for Mr Cleveland's election should he be nominated

No I shall not vote for him

For what reason Mr Mayor?

Because he is no statesman and I do not believe in his re-election

Don't you think Mr Cleveland will be re-elected?"

He may but not by my help

This conversation was had with Mayor Hewitt in the presence of several New York city reporters and was not denied by any of them which, [illegible] his influence with them

Sherman's Solid Popularity

Cleveland Leader

Mr Sherman's candidacy has a solid foundation It is built upon a record of thirty-five years of distinguished public service during the most trying period of the nation's history His name is a household word from the Atlantic to the Pacific from the St. Lawrence to the Gulf His candidacy is national, not local He is no new or untried quantity, and he has encountered the ill will of no faction

A PROMISING LUMBER MARKET

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman says the [illegible] and Tacoma Company expect to be making [illegible] before the 1st of January next They will [illegible] hard mills being still find the [illegible] best for [illegible] timber Other [illegible] men expect [illegible] timber tracts and [illegible] the [illegible] Eastern competitors will [illegible] the [illegible] Northwest Pacific [illegible] next

Speaking of the [illegible] lumber market for Pacific [illegible] lumber, the same authority says: It will not do to underestimate the [illegible] the Pacific coast fir as a [illegible] must have [illegible] of lumber supply [illegible] numerous [illegible] heretofore [illegible] Western mills east [illegible] of the product [illegible] foreign and coastwise demand exceed the capacity of the mills already established the California market was remunerative [illegible] and the Northern Pacific railroad because of [illegible] completion of its big tunnel was not in position to encourage a large traffic eastward. These conditions are rapidly changing Mills are multiplying There has been a falling off in the California demand The tunnel is substantially completed, and more than all the railroad company has undertaken to encourage not only the establishment of new mills but the shipment of Western lumber into fields of white pine supply The Lumberman does not entertain the opinion that a market is to be found east this side of Montana for West [illegible] lumber of all grades But in long [illegible] and joists and timbers for use in car construction, the Western mill men brook no successful competition A ready market will be found wherever the man factures out that way [illegible] and the haul of 1900 miles does not [illegible] to be a bar either to the successful shipment. Henry Hewitt, Jr is authority for the statement that his company already have an opportunity to contract fully one fourth of their first year's cut at good remunerative figures. This [illegible] demand comes from the car builders who are now using yellow pine Under these circumstances it can readily be believed that the Douglas fir is likely to be a more formidable competitor for the Southern pine than for the white pine of the North, because it is better adapted for the purposes for which the yellow pine is being used. This is equally true of flooring, wainscoting and purposes of that sort, for which the yellow pine is now being used in the North and for long timbers in car construction. The car builders have already discovered that the fir possesses great tensile strength, that it is free from the defects peculiar to yellow pine, and that it is in every way superior to the Southern wood. While the Oregon and Washington territory lumber is destined to find an outlet in these special fields of consumption even as far east as Chicago it will enjoy a growing field of demand in Minnesota, Dakota Nebraska Montana, Colorado, and as far south as Kansas. Here before the whole movement of lumber has been westward. But just as the Chicago and other lake markets are beginning to enjoy a demand from the East, the manufacturers out on the Pacific coast are sure to enjoy a demand from the fields of consumption to the east of them In these new fields they will meet and compete with the white pine of Minnesota and Wisconsin and the yellow pine of the South But but it is entirely probable that the timber from the undeveloped region of the Musselshell country will become a factor in the problem.

AGRICULTURAL [illegible]

The Government Signal Service [illegible] Farmers.

The Plum and Peach Borer—[illegible] Are Spoiled—Grapes and [illegible]

General Greely, of Arctic [illegible] ceeds to the command [illegible] bureau, is making an [illegible] branch of the government [illegible] farmers as an aid in their [illegible] Heretofore it has not been [illegible] to become informed [illegible] to take advantage [illegible] are only made [illegible] twenty-four hours. An illustration of the work [illegible] by this bureau is found in [illegible] tins lately issued containing [illegible] ment of the average dates of [illegible] frosts throughout the country [illegible] ent signal stations. This [illegible] panied by a table of average [illegible] chart is constructed therefrom [illegible] average dates on which the [illegible] frosts have occurred at different [illegible] the Rocky mountains to the [illegible] Many of the signal service [illegible] record of fourteen years. [illegible] the records of all [illegible] is thought to [illegible] This chart shows [illegible] within ten days of the time [illegible] erage by its tables. [illegible] ence in the periods of the [illegible] ent locations on the sea [illegible] ward the mountains. [illegible] average dates of killing frosts [illegible] calities, the earliest and latest [illegible] occurrence, and the extreme [illegible] between which earliest and latest [illegible] been noted, finally [illegible] age of time where the [illegible] has not been more [illegible] earlier or later than the [illegible] The tables divide the country [illegible] which a variation occurs of [illegible] tween the dates of last killing [illegible] for instance, of from April [illegible] the coast from Norfolk, Va. [illegible] For Philadelphia the average [illegible] killing frost is April 5. [illegible] rence was in 1874, on April [illegible]

A comparatively long period [illegible] ing which late frosts may [illegible] it would seem to be possible [illegible] to predicate somewhat on [illegible] prevailing and draw conclusions [illegible] On the great lakes, for instance [illegible] falo, the extreme variation [illegible] days, while on the Atlantic coast [illegible] variation was thirty-eight days [illegible] tions of the bureau will [illegible] become more valuable with [illegible] possible the conclusions arrived at [illegible] important aids in fruit culture [illegible] of horticultural and [illegible] Farmers and fruit growers [illegible] friend at the head of the signal [illegible] reau, and it is to be hoped that [illegible] advantages from his efforts in [illegible]

A DANGEROUS PEST.

The Plum and Peach Borer and [illegible] Ravages.

Some years ago a farmer [illegible] planted 500 Italian prunes and [illegible] before five years old. The roots [illegible] by the borer, a worm that does [illegible] most effectually. Some of the [illegible] and prune orchards in Oregon [illegible] fested in this way and now is [illegible] over them and do work to prevent [illegible] and prevent the recurrence of the [illegible] one year at least. Attention is [illegible] matter by one who has recently [illegible] jury done by these insects [illegible] prune trees. He is of the opinion [illegible] trees will be injured, and in [illegible] stances orchards nearly [illegible] THE OREGONIAN calls [illegible]

The borer moth lays its eggs [illegible] body a few inches above the [illegible] worm hatches and digs a channel [illegible] the soil, then punctures the bark [illegible] out gum. In this stage the small [illegible] is to be found between this [illegible] bark. In time it enters the sap [illegible] under the bark they girdle the tree [illegible] do not kill they can injure a tree [illegible] it worthless.

To prevent the ravages of the [illegible] dig the dirt away from the [illegible] roots for a foot or so. If the borer [illegible] gum will exude just below the [illegible] sometimes at the very surface [illegible] Examine for worms. Kill all [illegible] on the outside or under the bark [illegible] soon learn where to find them [illegible] cleared the roots of worms, [illegible] posed roots and the base of [illegible] eight inches above the ground [illegible] ture made of three pints [illegible] and fish oil, and three pounds [illegible] phur and whale-oil soap. [illegible]

It is claimed that to wash the [illegible] tree and a little under the [illegible] strong solution of lye will [illegible] pose but the first mixture [illegible]

SPOILING YOUNG [illegible]

One of the prominent men [illegible] ly ventured on planting out [illegible] modestly asked a friend how [illegible] age his young trees when [illegible] sowed the land to oats. [illegible] 'Are you in earnest [illegible] prunes?" to which the [illegible] strong. The friend went on [illegible] plow the oats under and let [illegible] land. If you want oats, let [illegible] kill your trees, but if you want [illegible] must kill the oats."

It is strange that sensible men [illegible] sider it possible to sow a young [illegible] grain. Your land should [illegible] trees and made to feed them [illegible] thing that taxes the soil hurts the [illegible]

There is no question about [illegible] virtue and ability of land [illegible] trees grow. If they merely live [illegible] they cannot prosper and gain [illegible] true aim of the orchardist should [illegible] his trees with a natural growth [illegible] by good cultivation only if they [illegible] soil. Oregon land needs little [illegible] make trees grow.

The injury done by [illegible] is not in robbing the soil [illegible] food but in preventing or [illegible] dering the aeration of the soil [illegible] stirred by the cultivator. If [illegible] stirred, the tree cannot grow [illegible] Trees treated in this way are [illegible] smothered. They cannot grow [illegible] as good trees afterwards, and [illegible] cover and become thrifty.

RAISING GRAPES AND [illegible]

The present year is a favorable [illegible] successful growth of two fruits that [illegible] been considered as natural to Oregon [illegible] and peaches. Everywhere the [illegible] peaches are a full crop [illegible] time. The prospect now is [illegible] be a full yield. Grapes also have [illegible] made a good showing. Mr. [illegible] Oswego, informs THE OREGONIAN [illegible] grapes are doing remarkably [illegible] place is in the heavy forest [illegible] City near the Tualatin, and [illegible] faces the south upon a gradual [illegible] offers healthy influences for the [illegible] is one of the most successful [illegible] the Willamette, but does not [illegible] in having a good yield. [illegible] varieties of grapes that can be [illegible] locations with a certainty of [illegible] return at least every other year [illegible] to such a yield has proved profitable [illegible] effect the building of the [illegible] California and through [illegible] remains to be seen. It may be [illegible] yards of Napa and of [illegible] compete so closely that grapes [illegible] not be profitable. If so, [illegible] might be made in growing [illegible] cots but fruit-growers cannot [illegible] down and refuse to grow [illegible] competition. WOMAN SUFFRAGE IN W. T.

ALDER CREEK RANCHES NEAR HOUSTON,
CUSTER CO, IDAHO, June 3, 1888.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Away out here in the wilds of Idaho, in the vicinity of the Big Copper and Mammoth gold mines, in a country so new that its lands are not yet surveyed by the government, where the only holdings are by "squatters' rights" and "desert entries" where my lot has been cast for the summer, I have found a goodly number of pioneer women of the Nancy Lincoln and Mother Garfield type, who are as deeply interested as every wise and patriotic woman cannot help but be everywhere in noting the disgraceful game of football now being played between the loving brethren of the republican and democratic parties of Washington territory, with woman as the football and the emissaries of the lost cause as judges.

The intelligent republican readers of THE OREGONIAN are asked to compare the recent woman suffrage decision by Judge Nash of Spokane Falls with the infamous Dred Scott decision of the ante-bellum period. Then let him pause and ask, Whither are we drifting? and he can only come to one conclusion. The same political turmoil differing only in degree from that which kept the nation in a ferment for more than a third of a century antedating the enfranchisement of the black man is going on to-day, antedating the enfranchisement of the white woman. The woman question will ye, nill ye, is the angel that troubles the political waters of to-day, just as the negro question troubled them in the decades gone.

The decision of Judge Nash is exactly what any intelligent republican might have expected. It belongs to the history of the 'lost cause party' of whose utterances I have just been reading choice excerpts from the record of Col Irish. According to the logic of the party which abets the utterances of Judge Nash the arch usurper of the rights of 'females' as well as his republican sympathizers who may be likened to the pro slavery whigs of ante bellum days, the power of the federal congress rests upon the interpretation of its supposed 'intentions' in the long gone years as understood according to the prejudices of some one-eyed man of to-day, who, finding himself clothed with a little brief authority, "writes himself down an ass." Excuse me if I speak sharply. These are no times for mincing phrases. Let us face the truth like heroes, even though the dynasty of a white and colored man's government should topple to its fall.

Would Judge Nash hold that the "similar principle" he cites in Massachusetts wherein the legislature has granted women the right to practice law is one requiring the veto of the judiciary because 'congress,' composed at all times of more than one-third of the sympathizers with negro slavery, and per consequence of the subjugation of women has always voted citizenship to 'males only'?

If the legislature of Washington territory cannot confer the elective franchise upon women how can Wyoming do so? And if Massachusetts can pass a law making women undoubtedly citizens,' though 'not contemplated as such by the law when it was made,' cannot Washington territory through her legislature do as much?

Where does this usurper of women's liberties learn that "public opinion does not change the law?" Does he get the idea from the results of the Dred Scott decision or the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments to the United States constitution?

All intelligent, patriotic women assert that the organic act' does "confer power upon the legislature to confer suffrage upon women." Even the Southern democratic members of congress who have spoken upon the subject have with one exception, admitted that the legislature of a territory has such power. It has never been disputed in the case of Wyoming, nor will it be in the case of Washington or any other territory before many years shall pass away. But in the meantime, let the prominent republicans (see recent dispatches from Walla Walla) who express themselves "satisfied" with the late usurpations of the democratic judges of whose opinion the Dred Scott decision is the acknowledged prototype remember the fate of the pro-slavery whig who, refusing to mount the car of progress when the black man's star was rising upon the billows of political tumult, was beaten back by the irresistible tide of events until compelled to hide himself forever under the cloak of the democratic party whose humble unpaid servant he remains to this day.

Looking into the future as a woman must guided by the light of past history and realizing the certainty with which coming events cast their shadows before, I can see no more national victories for the republican party until it shall redeem its pledges to the loyal mothers of America, whose cause it espoused when its star was in the ascendant in 1872 only to prove traitor to its trust in the hour of its triumph since which time it has been beset with tribulations that will surely continue, like the plagues of Egypt, till it returns to the fundamental principles of a republican form of government, a government of the people, for the people and by the people of whom despite the implied "intentions" of congress as interpreted by the adverse opinions of a Taney or even a Turner or a Nash, the negroes and women are component parts.

ABIGAIL SCOTT DUNIWAY

Why, Certainly.

Louisville Courier Journal (Free Trade with a Whoop)

Four years ago the democratic national convention said "Unnecessary taxation is unjust taxation," and yet we are collecting $140 000,000 unnecessarily, and a bill to reduce taxation one-half hangs fire in a democratic house of representatives.

Why is this? Do democrats lack the courage of their convictions? Or is the party in the hands of a few bosses able and willing to sell it out on every occasion?

Randall, Gorman and Barnum constitute the triumvirate who are laboring in season and out, by fair means and by foul to have the party give the lie to its own promises and professions.

The time has come to determine whether these three bosses belong to the party or whether the party belongs to them.

It was Incredible.

New York Sun

Kentucky citizen (to Mrs Col Blood)—The painful duty is mine dear madam to communicate the dreadful news that your husband has met with a sudden and terrible death. Mrs Col Blood (in a fainting condition)—Wha what killed him? Citizen—He was drowned. Mrs Col Blood (rousing herself)—Never it cannot be. The colonel is still alive!

WILL YOU LISTEN TO SOUND ADVICE?

Owing to the inclination of many people to be humbugged in the purchase of articles of necessity in the household we feel it our duty to sound a note of warning to those who seek remedies for the relief of the aches and pains incident to this season of the year. The great and growing popularity of BENSON'S PLASTER has tempted unscrupulous manufacturer to offer many worthless substitution and imitations of that valuable remedy, hence we would advise those who wish to secure prompt relief from Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Pleurisy, Chest Pains, Sciatica, Rheumatism, Lumbago and Backache to carefully avoid worthless plasters by always asking for BENSON'S and let no persuasion by the dealer induce you to accept any other plaster.

FULTON PARK!

The Largest, Best Located and Most Desirable Tract ever placed upon the Market, consisting of 1500 Choice Residence Lots, located in the Growing Direction of the City, and only Seven Minutes' Ride from the Postoffice.

[illegible]. [illegible]. EASY TERMS AND GROUND FLOOR PRICES.

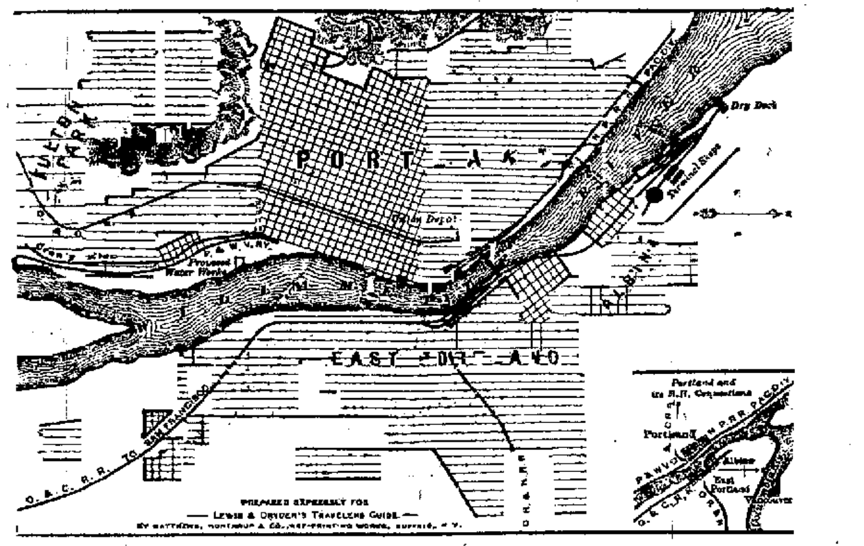

An Unprecedented Offer to the Home-Seeker and Speculator. An Annual Profit of 60 per cent. Absolutely Guaranteed.

SALE TO COMMENCE JUNE 20, 1888.

FULTON PARK.

LOCATION.---FULTON PARK, as will be seen by reference to the accompanying map, is situated on the west bank of the Willamette river, and one mile south of the present southern boundary of Portland, and in the rapidly growing direction of the city. The addition consists of 370 acres, commencing at the river bank and extending westward over a beautiful plateau, and thence along the gentle rolling hills for a distance of over one-half mile, forming one of the most delightful residence sites on the Pacific coast. The property has been artistically subdivided so as to conform to the contour of the country, and every lot has been made accessible by a system of grand boulevards and winding driveways, recently completed at a cost of over $15,000, thus giving it a feature of significance enjoyed by no other tract on the market. The view afforded from any point in FULTON PARK is one of the grandest in the world, embracing as it does at a single glance the eternal snow-capped peaks of Mount Hood, Jefferson, St. Helens and Baker, rising from 7000 to 12,000 feet above sea level; the evergreen Cascade range and foothills; the picturesque cities of Portland and East Portland, with a combined population of 60,000; and last but not least, the beautiful Willamette river as it gracefully winds its way between the two cities, to a point 12 miles northward, where it empties into the mighty Columbia.

In addition to its charming scenic features, FULTON PARK possesses many other elements to be considered in the selection of a home, such as pure mountain air, living springs, a natural drainage system, absolute freedom from malaria, convenient public schools, cheap and rapid transportation, and in fact all the essential requirements of a progressive suburb, making at once the most desirable addition ever placed upon the market

TRANSPORTATION SYSTEM.

FULTON PARK, as shown by the accompanying map, is connected with the business center of Portland by two separate and distinct lines of railway---the Portland & Willamette Valley, narrow gauge, and the Oregon Central, a standard gauge. The former starts from the corner of W[illegible] and Jefferson streets, a very central location, and follows the west bank of the Willamette river, crossing the east end of FULTON PARK, two and a quarter miles from the starting point, or one mile south of the southern city boundary, in precisely seven minutes, thus reducing the distance in time, as compared with horse car transit, to less than one-half mile. Elegant equipped passenger trains of the narrow gauge system pass FULTON PARK station every thirty minutes, going north and south, between the hours of 6 A. M. and 10.50 P. M., and in less than three months, at the present rate of increase in travel, the service will be adjusted so as to [illegible] there every ten minutes. The fare each way to and from FULTON PARK is only five cents, being as low as the cheapest car fare in the city. The Oregon Central railroad starts from the union depot in the north end of the city, runs south along Fourth street, making two stops for local passengers, one in the vicinity of the postoffice and the other at the south end, thence along the foothills to FULTON PARK, a point that is reached in [illegible] minutes, thus affording residents of this beautiful suburb a choice of two routes. In addition to its excellent railroad and steamboat facilities, FULTON PARK is reached by the White House road, conceded by everybody to be the most beautiful and romantic driveway on the Pacific coast.

PRICE, TERMS, ETC.

Price of lots in FULTON PARK range from $50 to $500 each, according to location. No deviation will be made from the printed price list, except on cash purchases, when a discount of five per cent. will be allowed. TERMS---One-fourth cash, balance in quarterly payments of twenty-five per cent. each, with interest on deferred payments at eight per cent. per annum. An advance of five per cent. will be made on the printed price list on the first day of each month for a period of two months, commencing September 1, 1888, thus insuring first purchasers an absolute profit of 60 per cent. per annum. Parties at a distance purchasing by mail or otherwise, in order to determine the amount of first payment, must add five per cent. to printed price list after September 1st, otherwise remittances will be returned at expense of sender. The title to FULTON PARK property is guaranteed to be absolutely perfect. All bonds and deeds will be furnished without additional charge.

ALBINA.---The City of Pay Rolls and Commerce.

A Wilderness in 1883---A Thriving City in 1888.

The cities of Portland and Albina are one---made so by business, trade and commerce; connected by bridges and united by a common interest. The highlands around Albina are the most beautiful sites that are in or around Portland, due to drainage, ventilation and view. It is practically the head of navigation, and the terminus of the railway system of the northwest.

$2,5[illegible] INVESTED IN TERMINAL WORKS, WHARVES, COAL BUNKERS, DRY DOCK, FLOURING MILL, and SAW MILLS within its corporate limits. The Terminus of [illegible] transcontinental railroads---the Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, Oregon Railway and Navigation Company, and Union Pacific. Connected with Portland by two Street [illegible]. Connected with Portland by numerous ferries and a new Steel Railway and Passenger Bridge. The center of dockage and shipping interests. The future city of homes, commanding a view of the [illegible] 60,000 population, and the Willamette river and Mount Hood. Has two large and commodious school-houses and churches of all denominations. The city affords fine opportunities for the capitalist, [illegible] clerk for safe investments in lots or acre property, with an absolute surety of rapid advancement in values.

If you wish to look over the thriving city of Albina and her beautiful residence sites, take the Albina ferryboat (fare 5 cents) which leaves foot of Oak street every half-hour, or visit the office of any live real estate [illegible] show you over the place in a carriage.
